Poultryless Day Discard Is Believed Imminent

Producers Must Give Alternative Plan for Saving 100 Million Bushels of Grain

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

An end to poultryless Thursdays seemed to be in sight yesterday, but on one condition.

That was that poultrymen and poultry feed manufacturers come forward with specific and concrete measures to help save 100 million bushels of grain to feed western Europe this winter. Poultry raisers have contended that eating less poultry was not the way to save grain consumed by growing fowls.

They will have their opportunity to present their alternatives today at a meeting with representatives of President Truman's Citizens Food Committee at the old State Department building. Charles Luckman, committee chairman, was in his Massachusetts home yesterday and may not return in time for the conference, in which case Vice Chairman Austin Fisher probably will open the meeting today.

Meatless Days to Stick

There was less probability that eggs would be removed from the Thursday schedule of voluntary rationing along with poultry. Egg production is in a seasonal decline and storage stocks have been depleted, while there is a large surplus of poultry in storage.

No chance whatever appeared that the committee would relax its program for meatless Tuesdays. In a statement yesterday, Luckman emphasized again the value of meatless days in saving food but did not mention poultry.

Back of this situation was a forecast by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics that next year's per capita meat supply would likely be 5 to 10 per cent under that for this year. The bureau said:

"Our livestock population has been decreasing. . . . Fewer 'finished' cattle will be coming to market next spring and summer. Hogs will be lighter in weight except in a few areas where large quantities of soft corn may have to be fed rather soon in order to use it before it spoils."

Rising Costs Reduce Livestock

The bureau said rising farm costs had made it increasingly less profitable to raise livestock, with the result that "farmers tend to feed less grain to the livestock they have and to reduce the number of livestock raised."

Food program officials felt this condition would tend to make the surplus of poultry in storage less important as a factor in considering the situation of poultry raisers, since it would be consumed in lieu of meat next spring.

Bread prices will be boosted today in several cities in another cost-of-living increase which bakers attributed to the soaring prices at grain exchanges.

Canfield Wants Truman to Have Talk With Stalin

By the United Press

Representative Gordon Canfield (R., N. J.) just back from a tour of Europe, said today the time has come for President Truman to have "a face to face, straight from the shoulder talk" with Russian Premier Josef Stalin.

He said United States-Russian relations are "tense" in Trieste, Berlin and Vienna and that every military and state leader he met believes that war is "inevitable."

"Apparently the Russians do not talk business unless it is with the 'highest level,'" he said.

Canfield, who toured 16 countries of Europe and the Middle East with House Appropriations-Armed Forces subcommittee, urged Congress to enact at the earliest possible moment the Marshall Plan for aid to Europe "or some like plan."

69 Saved at Sea Laud Hero Charge Plane Overcrowded

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

IN FORCED LANDING—Baby Wilma Logan, 2, one of the youngest survivors of the forced landing of the Bermuda Sky Queen, is held by Seaman Malcolm McNeil of Vancouver, B. C., also a survivor, as Wilma's mother, Mrs. Agnes Logan of Dundee, Scotland, among those rescued, looks on. Survivors of the air crash were brought to Boston on the Coast Guard cutter Bibb. The plane was sunk by shellfire as a menace to navigation

By Gene Casey
Special Dispatch to The Post

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Thousands cheered from shore and scores of craft whistled a greeting this afternoon as the Coast Guard weather ship Bibb brought to the United States the 69 survivors of the Atlantic-ditched Bermuda Sky Queen.

What the cheering thousands failed to hear among the shoreside laudatory speeches was the burning condemnation by the rescued of the overcrowded "steerage" conditions aboard the ill-starred transatlantic seaplane.

Words of complaint of being forced to sleep on the plane floor and dine on only cookies and fruit juice tumbled from the lips of still frightened passengers, who despite their ire against plane conditions were high in their praise of the plane crew, the merchant seamen among the passengers and the Coast Guardsmen who risked life and limb to come to their rescue.

The merchant seamen emerged as the hitherto unsung heroes of the rescue at sea. Praised by Coast Guardsmen and fellow-passengers alike, they were credited with preventing panic aboard the plane during the eight hours it tossed on 35-foot seas before rescuers could come close.

The seamen aboard the plane were lauded for making rescue work possible after an initial Coast Gurd effort to reach the ditched airboat was unsuccessful. They bravely launched the plane's small raft and with it made contact with a large 15-man raft towed close aboard by the Coast Guard.

Then the merchantmen transferred other passengers from plane to raft, carrying babies and children in their arms, and used the Coast Guard raft as a floating dock to transfer their ditched fellows to the rescuing surfboat.

MANY of the rescued were still too sick from their experience to leave sickbay for interviews as the Bibb arrived here. Among those praising work of the merchantmen were Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Ritchie of New Brunswick, Canada, who were returning from Geneva with their 3-year-old son, Gordon.

Ritchie, who is with the economic affairs department of the United Nations, had been attending a trade conference at Geneva.

Mrs. Gwen Ritchie told of becoming separated from her husband and son in the rescue excitement. "I was put on the first raftload," she said, "and I found myself taking care of someone else's child. He was 9-year-old Stuart Bostock of Venezuela and I held him in my arms on the surfboat. I tried to shild him against the waves pouring over the side."

"We were taken aboard the Bibb and I was immediately put into the sickbay. I knew that my son was with my husband and would be safe. I was the first woman to go aboard the ship and I kept praying over and over again that the others would be as lucky as

Chest Needs to Be Stressed At Pre-Drive Gatherings

More than 20 precampaign meetings and rallies are scheduled by the Community Chest for residents of Greater Washington this week.

Speakers will emphasize what failure to overreach the goal of $3,900,000 will mean in terms of human suffering in this area. The aid of Washington clergymen of all faiths has been enlisted in putting over the compaign which begins November 6.

The Committee on Religious Life in the Nation's Capital is sponsoring a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p. m. today at Barker Hall, YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw. The Rt. Rev. John J. Russell will speak, and plans will be made for special services marking November 2 as Red Feather Sunday.

A rally of all Red Feather agency board members, staff members and leaders of the campaign will be held at 8 p. m. in the Presidential Room of the Statler. More than a thousand persons are expected to hear Edward L. Ryerson, president of Community Chests and Councils, Inc., the national organization of chests and councils of social agencies.

The purpose of the joint meeting, the first ever held in connection with a fund raising campaign, is to share "vital information" about special phases of this year's campaign, Edward H. Foley, jr., campaign chairman, said.

The role of organized labor in the chest drive will be described by Edward J. Keyes, executive director of the Chest Federation, before a meeting of delegates of the Central Labor Union at 8 p. m. at Central Labor Union headquarters, 525 New Jersey ave. nw.

Sponsoring the meeting will be the AFL Advisory Committee, organized this year by the Central Labor Union to assist the labor

Truman Urges 'Decent Peace' Mobilization of Christians

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday urged mobilization of America's Christian forces behind "an honorable, decent peace in the world for every nation in it."

He spoke at ceremonies making a national Presbyterian Shrine of Covenant-First Church, a congregation that started on the present White House site in 1792.

Standing on the granite steps of the new National Presbyterian Church at 18th and N sts. and Connecticut Ave. nw., the Chief Executive unveiled a bronze plaque commemorating the event. He saw Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton, place a wreath at the statue of John Witherspoon, Presbyterian stalwart and only clergyman-signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Speaking in a balmy October breeze before an audience of church, governmental and diplomatic dignitaries, and a crowd of Washingtonians behind police lines, the President said:

"There never was a time in the history of the country when we more needed the backing of those people who believe in the Golden Rule and who believe in the teachings of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

"Now is the time to mobilize behind those principles so that the

Attorneys to Ask That Subpenas for Larry Parks and 18 Others Be Quashed

Attorneys for 19 Hollywood personalities said yesterday that as soon as the House Un-American Activities Committee opens its probe of the movie colony this morning, they will ask that subpenas against their clients be quashed.

The lawyers charged that the investigation is unlawful because its seeks to "control the content of motion pictures through censorship and political intimidation."

Announcement of the surprise legalistic move for dismissal of the subpenas was made at an afternoon press conference here by Robert W. Kenny and five associates who represent Actor Larry Parks and 18 screen writers, directors and producers. A telegram serving notice of the motion and containing the grounds was sent yesterday to Representative J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.), chairman of the investigating committee, Kenny said.

Limited to Advice

Thomas already has announced that attorneys will be allowed to utter nothing at the hearings but advice to their clients. Kenny, former California attorney general, said he didn't know what the lawyers would do if Thomas refused to recognize him when he rises to make the motion. If the committee hears the motion and overrules it, he added, then the question of the committee's constitutionality might be taken to the courts.

Kenny said he will insist that he be allowed to cross-examine witnesses and will instruct his clients to answer only "pertinent constitutional questions."

Kenny's associates, all of whom also signed the wire to Thomas, are Bartley C. Crum, who was a member of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine, Martin Popper, Ben Margolis, Charles J. Katz and Samuel Rosenwein.

Besides Parks, their clients are Lewis Milestone, director of "All Quiet on the Western Front," Dalton Trumbo, author of "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," Albert Maltz, who wrote "Pride of the Marines," Edward Dmytryk and Adrian Scott, director and producer of "Crossfire," John Howard Lawson, author of "Action in the Atlantic," Ring Lardner, jr., author and screen writer, writer Alvah Bessie, director-producer Herbert Biberman, dramatist Bertold Brecht, writer Lester Cole, writer Richard Collins, writer Gordon Kahn, writer Howard Koch, director-producer Samuel Ornitz, director-producer Irving Pichel, writer Robert Rossen, and writer Waldo Salt.

Other "Performers" Appear

Meanwhile, other "performers" appeared ready yesterday for the curtain of what may be a show at least as spectacular as the recent hearings involving airplane builder Howard Hughes.

Chairman Thomas went into a Sabbath huddle with his staff and announced the committee is ready.

"This is going to be an orderly hearing," he said.

Thomas hopes to prove that Communists have infiltrated Hollywood so that they now succeed in spreading doctrine through the screen. He also hinted that some Communist propaganda in films—particularly in "Mission to Mos-

U. S. Gains Over Soviet Seen at U. N.

Marshall Advisers Feel Policies Have Chance in Spite of Paralyzing Veto

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 19.—In spite of all the sound and fury of this Assembly, Secretary of State George C. Marshall and his advisers believe they are making headway against the paralyzing effect on the United Nations of Soviet vetoes.

They are confident, on the basis of the Assembly's first month, that they will get the support of two-thirds majorities for the policies Marshall outlined on the Assembly's opening day.

While proof is expected to come tomorrow or Tuesday on the Greek issue, the Secretary is going to Washington tomorrow to confer with President Truman and other officials.

Commission to Greece Up

The Assembly in plenary session will be asked to ratify the sending of a semi-permanent commission to Greece. This was high on the Secretary's list of priorities when he came to the Assembly.

The Soviet and satellite delegations probably will repeat their bitter counter-charges against the Greek, British and American governments. But there is a good prospect now of the necessary two-thirds vote, and of the departure of the 11-nation commission for Salonika within thirty days.

Another item on Secretary Marshall's "must" list of a month ago was the creation of a standing committee of the Assembly, to remain in session all year. So far nobody except the Soviet delegations has opposed this device, and the Americans here feel it is "in the bag."

The third of the Secretary's priorities was an Assembly recommendation on Korea. The American proposals for it have just been published and have not yet come before the Assembly. But the mere fact of putting this problem on the Assembly's agenda has had results, in American eyes; for just three days after Secretary Marshall said he would raise the issue here, Russia suddenly proposed a joint withdrawal of the occupying armies from Korea.

Effect on Deadlocks

Recourse to the Assembly, apparently, can help to break deadlocks, though the Assembly cannot do much more than "recommend" solutions.

As for the fourth item on Secretary Marshall's list, a subcommittee to study limitation of the veto, no prodding from the United States is needed to get this Assembly to act. The middle-sized and small powers have come to Lake Success this year thoroughly aroused by Soviet use of the veto during the past, and determined to do everything they can to change it.

The American delegation here has not been able to get 100 per cent of what it wanted when it came here. It failed to get a vote of outright condemnation against Greece's northern neighbors. It also discovered that Russia and her satellites would boycott the work of the new commission in Greece, and would shut it out from their territories.

Likewise the proposal for a "Little Assembly" had to be watered down, so that the new standing committee will have carefully limited powers and will hardly merit

Kuriles Deal Due to Stalin's Opportunism, Byrnes Says

By James F. Byrnes

This is a serialization of James F. Byrnes's "Speaking Frankly"—6 of 15 chapters of the book published October 15, 1947, by Harper & Brothers. Copyright, 1947, by James F. Byrnes Foundation (A Charitable Trust).

ANOTHER AGREEMENT was made at Yalta which was to confront me later. This was the "Top Secret" Protocol in which it was agreed that in return for Soviet participation in the war against Japan the Kurile Islands would be "handed over" to the Soviet Union. It also provided that "the former rights of Russia violated by the treacherous attack of Japan in 1904 shall be restored," and listed these as the return of the southern half of Sakhalin Island, internationalization of the Port of Dairen, the lease of Port Arthur as a Russian naval base, and joint Russo-Chinese operation of the Chinese Eastern and South Manchurian railroads. The United States was to use its influence to have China agree to that part affecting China's territory.

I did not know of this agreement, but the reason is understandable. At that time I was not Secretary of State. Mr. Stettinius was Secretary.

Because of problems that had arisen in Washington the President wanted me to return with Admiral King, who was leaving at noon on February 10. We expected the conference would end that evening and that the President would leave the following day. But that afternoon Stalin requested the President to remain one more day. He said they could not conclude their work and he wished to discuss some matter he deemed important. The President complied. The agreement as to the Kurile Islands was reached in private conversations among the Big Three instead of at the conference table, and the protocols, including this one, were signed on February 11. Had I been in Yalta that day it is probable I would have learned of it.

WHEN THE PRESIDENT returned he did not mention it to me and the protocol was kept locked in his safe at the White House. In the early summer I learned that President Roosevelt had undertaken to induce China to make the concessions affecting Port Arthur, Dairen and the railroad, but it was not until some time after I became Secretary of State that a news story from Moscow caused me to inquire and learn of the full agreement. I presented the matter to President Truman and he requested Admiral Leahy to transfer to the State Department those documents at the White House containing agreements with foreign governments. I wanted to know now many IOUs were outstanding.

In considering the wisdom of these Pacific agreements entered into by President Roosevelt, one

Harriman Unit May Urge Aid By the Year

Malone Calls Marshall Plan 'World WPA,' Suggests Private Loans

By The Associated Press

A presidential advisory committee may urge that Congress be asked to make a single year's appropriation for economic aid to Europe without trying to set a final cost figure for the Marshall Plan.

This was learned authoritatively yesterday as the 19-member citizens group, headed by Secretary of Commerce Harriman, worked on its report of resources which this Nation might safely utilize for foreign help. It is expected to reach President Truman the first week in November. Mr. Truman will utilize it and other studies in assembling recommendations to Congress.

Committee members said their report probably would include only a "rough guess" of the ultimate cost of American attempts to help Europe get itself back on an even economic keel—the goal of the Marshall Plan.

These members said it was the general understanding that the report might say the United States could safely and wisely invest between 16 billion dollars and 20 billion dollars in the aid program over a course of years.

Many Valuable Factors Seen

But they pointed out that the success or failure of European harvests, a possible increase in foreign coal production, fluctuations in prices and many other factors would so influence the need for aid that it would be unwise for Congress to set up any overall figure for a five-year program.

Some Republican leaders already have made it clear they want the European aid program placed on a year-to-year basis and would oppose any more to have the lawmakers pass now on a long-range figure such as that involved in the 16-country request for outside help of $22,440,000,000.

Meanwhile, speakers assailed and upheld the Marshall Plan, which as advanced by Secretary of State Marshall envisions a program of United States aid to European countries on a self-help basis.

Senator Malone (R., Nev.) said it had "degenerated apparently into a grandiose world WPA." He opposed "using government money in the rehabilitation of industry."

As an alternative to this, Malone said private money and American experts were interested in

ITU Modifies Its Policy on 'No Contracts'

Printers Now Signing Pacts With 60-Day Cancellation Clause

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

In a major modification of its previously announced policy, the International Typographical Union is now signing contracts with employers which contain a "60-day cancellation clause."

This was revealed to The Washington Post yesterday by Woodruff Randolph, ITU president.

Randolph, here to address a meeting of the Columbia Typographical Union at Pythian Temple, 1012 9th st. nw., said the contracts "will be signed by any (local) union if the employer is willing to sign, providing of course that wages, hours, and so forth are agreeable."

At its eighty-ninth convention at Cleveland, in August, the ITU said its locals would post "conditions of employment," rather than signed contracts, although the International executive council was given authority to "interpret, construe and enforce" that policy.

Opponent Hits Randolph

In Chicago last week, Reese J. Highfield, secretary-treasurer and business agent of the Akron, Ohio, Typographical Union, who has opposed Randolph's policies, charged that:

"Before abolishing the no-contract policy entirely, the executive council will cause the local scale committees to offer a new 'form printed' agreement prepared by the council which they feel will be rejected by the employers because of the wording therein."

The American Newspaper Publishers Association has asked its members to insist on a "written, signed contract for one year or more, without cancellation clauses."

Randolph yesterday would not disclose how many of the contracts containing the clause which permits cancellation of the contract at any time upon 60 day's notice have been signed. "That's something the ANPA would like to know," he said.

Hinted at in Baltimore

First public hint of the change in ITU policy came September 26 in Baltimore, where the Baltimore Typographical Union is involved in the first union test of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Hearings under way before a National Labor Relations Board panel there involve charges by the

De Gaulle's Party Takes Early Lead in French Poll

New Anti-Communist Group Winning 36% Of Votes With Reds Holding Their Own

Paris, Oct. 19.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's anti-Communist Rally of the French People (RPF) took an early lead tonight in returns from municipal election held throughout France.

A tabulation of the first one million votes counted in various French cities showed:

RPF—371,638 (36.75 per cent).

Communists—294,534 (29.10 per cent).

Socialists—210,575 (20.80 per cent).

Popular Republican Movement (MRP)—117,644 (11.60 per cent).

Other parties—17,287 (1.87 per cent).

De Gaulle, Free French leader of the war, had barnstormed the country in his pre-election campaign. His RPF ran for the first time in the Sunday balloting which was regarded as giving a new indication of Communist and anti-Communist strength in the Fourth Republic.

The early returns showed the Rally was drawing many votes from Communist strongholds. Thus far the MRP, the centrist party of Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, apparently was not polling its usual strength.

De Gaulle Strongest in Paris

De Gaulle's party was showing its greatest strength in Paris where the threat of a general strike dominated the election atmosphere. First tabulations in the capital gave the RPF more than 50 per cent of the vote counted.

At Rennes, in conservative Brittany, the Rally's plurality ran as high as 70 per cent.

In southwestern Bayonne, the Rally had an 80 per cent plurality.

In the nineteenth Paris district, often called the capital's "Red belt," De Gaulle's party polled 524 to 462 for the Communists in first returns.

The Bordeaux city hall announced that 20 Rally candidates for the municipal council had been elected for certain, compared with eight Communists, seven Socialists and two Popular Republicans.

The first final returns came from Aix en Provence, a few miles north of Marseilles, where the Rally obtained 5808 votes; the Socialists, 5145; the Communists, 4141, and the MRP, 2501.

Marseilles, which elected a joint Socialist-Communist ticket in the 1945 elections, gave the Communists 10,522 votes to 10,112 for the Rally, 5500 for the Socialists and 2390 for Popular Republicans in first returns.

Trend May Be Reversed

The ministry said the returns were only preliminary and the trend might be reversed.

De Gaullists predicted that they would poll 20 per cent of the vote.

The election afforded a new measure of Communist and anti-Communist strength in the Fourth Republic. In Paris the threat of a general strike dominated the election atmosphere.

The turnout was heavy. Elec-

Foreign Visitor Curbs Are Called Highly Offensive

By the United Press

The American Civil Liberties Union told the State Department yesterday that its restrictions on the activities of some foreign visitors to the United States "are highly offensive to the American public and to other nations."

In a letter to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, ACLU National Director Roger N. Baldwin cited the case of the two foreigners—one a corespondent for a French Communist newspaper and the other a spokesman for the Indian minority in South Africa—who were recently granted visas to attend the United Nations Assembly in New York City only on condition that they stay in the vicinity of U. N. and refrain from public utterances.

In the case of the Communist, severel members of Congress had urged the State Department to take such action in retaliation for restrictions on United States Congressmen and other American visitors in Russia and Russian-dominted nations.

The Post Poll

2 Out of 3 Believe in Tipping; 10% Correct, Says Majority

(Individual expressions of opinion, Page 8.)

To tip or not to tip—this question is resolved by the majority of Washingtonians in favor of tipping. Two out of three people told The Washington Post Poll that they believe in the practice.

Waiters and waitresses fare best of all. Nearly all people eating in retaurants more than once a month say they leave a tip regularly.

Although men are reputed to be the best tippers, the women outdistance them in one respect: More women tip their hairdressers than men tip barbers.

These findings are based on personal interviews with a representative cross-section of people living in the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Local residents were first asked:

"Do you believe in the practice of tipping?"

|---|---|
| Yes | 62% |
| No | 36 |
| Don't know | 2 |

Men and women agree with each other on this question. Nearly half the people over 45 years of age say they do not believe in the practice, however, as compared with a third of younger people.

It is worth noting that many more people with incomes under $2000 a year approve of tipping than do people with higher incomes.

When it comes down to the specific case of tipping in restaurants, 9 out of 10 people who eat out more than once a month say they regularly leave a tip. Only 1 out of 20 says it depends on the service.

Residents who eat out more than once a month were asked:

"What do you consider the correct per cent to tip?"

Here is how their answers divided:

| | All who eat out | 2-5 times a mo. | 6-15 times a mo. | 16 or more times a mo. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 10 per cent | 55% | 56% | 61% | 46% |
| Over 10 per cent | 27 | 19 | 27 | 41 |
| 10 cts. min. or 10 p. c. | 2 | 2 | 1 | 3 |
| 25 cts. min. | 9 | 11 | 8 | 9 |
| Other amts | 5 | 11 | 2 | |
| No opin. | 2 | 1 | 3 | 1 |

The usual 10 per cent tip is considered correct by the majority who eat out, but the people who eat out the most are pretty evenly divided between favoring a tip of this size and one that is more than 10 per cent.

Tipping cab drivers is not so common as tipping waiters or wait-

U. S. Air Force Ready to Fly 'Anywhere, Anytime' in Arctic

The United States Air Force revealed yesterday it has learned to fly "anywhere" in the strategically critical Arctic "at any time."

It also disclosed that, as a by-product of 14 months' experimental Arctic flying, it had found three magnetic poles instead of a single pole, and mapped their exact locations. These poles, the Air Force said, lie close together, with the major pole on Prince of Wales Island.

This discovery apparently solved the year-old mystery of the "shifting" magnetic pole raised when the B-29 Pacusan Dreamboat flew over the pole in October, 1946. The navigator reported the magnetic pole 200 miles off position, a situation which brought explanations that the magnetic pole was actually a large oval-shaped area. It was not then known that it contained three separate areas of magnetic activity.

Since July, 1946, the USAF said, the forty-sixth Reconnaissance Squadron has flown more than 5000 hours and one million miles in the Arctic, including more than 100 flights over the geographic North Pole. Among its accomplishments were:

1. Photo-mapping 35,000 square miles to determine possibility of oil formations, a project in which the Navy cooperated.

2. Developing a system of navigation "enabling the planes of the squadron to fly anywhere and to know their location to within one mile," as well as calculating drift

Rationing Controls Urged by Berge

Top Priority

Brewster Urges Quick Aid to China

By The Associated Press

Senator Brewster (R., Me.) said yesterday that United States emergency aid to China against communism is just as important as help for western Europe because "stabilization of Asia is the Achilles' Heel of Russia."

The Maine lawmaker told reporters that congressional committees meeting next month to survey Europe's plight should at the same time chart a program for shoring up the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

"I told President Truman over a year ago after visiting the Orient that a keystone of our foreign policy should be a stronger China," Brewster said.

"I also told him then that General MacArthur should be given the job of helping China get on her feet. He is the one man who could bring order out of chaos, and continue in charge in Japan as well."

Brewster called Chiang Kai-shek "one of the great men of the world" and said "no one can challenge his good faith."

But the Senator said China must have help quick, both civilian and military.

He said a strong China would be a guarantee of peace in the Pacific "because China has always been a peaceful nation."

Ex-U. S. Official Would Set Up New Production Board

Asserting that America faces economic disaster, Wendell Berge, former United States Assistant Attorney General, yesterday called for establishment of a "peace production board."

American business will be ruined unless the Marshall Plan buying program is accompanied by rationing and price control, Berge said. He spoke on Ed Hart's program "Is Congress Doing the Job" on Station WINX.

"The collapse of Europe would be a catastrophe of the first order. Further inflation in this country is bad, but we must come to our senses and face squarely the stark economic and political factors involved.

"In other words, the economy of the Western nations is so sick that a bitter pill right now is required," he said.

If, however, to put the Marshall Plan into effect, the Government is going to go into the market and buy food, steel, machinery and other commodities already in short supply, it will further increase our shortages and raise our prices.

"Collapse and depression, which would ruin American business, would only be a matter of time, unless this Marshall Plan buying program is accompanied by allocations of scarce materials and the rationing and price control of those consumers' goods in critical short supply," he said.

Poultryless Days May End

Pittsburgh, Omaha, Milwaukee and Atlanta announced increases of 1 to 2 cents a loaf. Other bakers across the Nation were expected to take similar action.

Luckman's committee announced yesterday that Protestant churches throughout the country would hold a "day of reminder" of Europe's need for food. It was expected the day chosen would be the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

Charles Taft Lends Help

Arrangements for the day were made in an exchange of messages between Luckman and Charles P. Taft, president of the Federal Council of Churches in America and a brother of Republican Senate Leader Robert A. Taft. He wired President Truman that he was urging leaders of all communions to enlist members in a drive to secure full compliance with Mr. Truman's food program.

"I believe," Taft said, "that the Christian people of this country will set an example of self-denial in sharing available food supplies, through the national program and church relief channels, to relieve the suffering of hungry people overseas."

Luckman replied, suggesting a "simultaneous mention in all churches on a specific Sunday of the desperate need in Europe." Taft assured Luckman the council would ask its churches to transmit such a message.

Hay Only Urged for Heifers

The Commerce and Agriculture Departments took steps yesterday to further success of the food drive.

Secretary of Commerce Harriman named George Bijur, New York advertising man, as his special assistant to maintain liaison between the food committee and business organizations.

The Department of Agriculture came forward with a tip to dairymen on saving grain for the dual purpose of saving grain and reducing feed bills. It said:

"Recent research by the Bureau of Dairy Industry indicates that dairy heifers can get along without grain from the time they are 10 or 12 months of age until shortly before they are due to freshen, provided they have been fed and raised properly from birth and are given all the good quality hay or other roughage they can eat at all times."

such enterprises if foreign countries "would respect the integrity of investments." These interests "will take the business risk but they can't take the risk of confiscation and nationalization of the money invested," Malone said in a radio interview.

He declared Congress would appropriate "any reasonable amount" for emergency food "going to people who will raise a crop next year and get off our necks . . . There must be an end to it."

The Harriman report, while covering some of the same ground as the recommendations submitted to President Truman Saturday by Interior Secretary Krug, is expected to go much further in relating European requirements to American resources.

Krug told reporters in submitting his report that the United States could carry out a 20-billion-dollar program for helping western Europe without seriously draining its resources. He said such a program would pay for itself eventually by speeding up imports to this country and reviving world trade.

The Harriman Committee apparently plans to break down the European requirements into general categories and stack them alongside American assets in those fields. It would pass upon the urgency of Europe's needs for certain commodities, as well as the validity of the 16 nations' claims that each must have a certain type of help.

With this breakdown the committee is expected to submit its recommendations for what could and should be done by the United States, as well as proposals for general policy in carrying out any program Congress might adopt.

Produce Men Tell How to Eat Well, Cheaply

Eat fruits and vegetables and you can eat well and cheaply, District produce wholesalers said last night.

"The save-food program will not cause you to eat less if you plan your meals to include a larger variety of fresh fruits and vegetables," J. Walter Smith, executive secretary of the District Wholesale Fruit and Produce Association, declared.

He pointed out that the "most popular fruits, such as apples, oranges, grapes and pears, and the really tasty and nourishing vegetables, including lima beans, potatoes, sweet potatoes, cabbage, celery, lettuce, onions and turnips, are priced at or below OPA ceilings."

Smith said vegetable dealers "don't like the eat-less campaign. They feel it's not necessary, if people use what they have wisely and sensibly."

One of the biggest handicaps for the fruit and vegetable men to overcome is the attitude that "I just don't eat vegetables." Smith declared that "people eat more fruits and vegetables than they think, when they add up greens in salads, side dishes and often in desserts."

Another difficulty is that housewives tend to view many items as luxuries, unnecessary in high price periods. "Actually, fruits and vegetables on the average are selling for 10 to 15 per cent below OPA ceilings, which were quite low," Smith said.

Smith explained the low prices as the result of short selling seasons and a shortage of refrigeration space on those items which can be held. "Most truck farmers are making less this year than they did two years ago," Smith said.

Increased demand for fruits and vegetables here would have the effect of improving quality, he pointed out, since greater turnover would mean the items would be fresher.

Another advantage would be reduction of waste through dumping of unpurchased food, he explained.

the nickname of a "Little Assembly."

Still, the Americans here believe that a Greek commission can keep world opinion focused on the Greek situation, with or without Soviet cooperation. They believe also that a standing committee of the Assembly, even with limited powers, can be useful to some extent in offsetting Soviet vetoes during the coming year.

There are, however, at least three serious drawbacks to whatever the American delegation has been able to accomplish at this Assembly:

1. The Assembly has been a gigantic distraction, taking public attention away from the more important issue of the economic rescue and revival of western Europe. Compared to this, everything raised in the Assembly has been a side issue.

Secretary Marshall himself, the author of the Harvard speech, has had to sit on the sidelines during a whole month, in which he might have been active in working out a European recovery program. But the former Chief of Staff is a trained stategist with a sense of timing; he chose to withdraw from the Washington scene while others struggled with his program.

He feels his speech to the CIO in Boston had highly useful results in winning labor support for the Marshall Plan; he intends to speak on European reconstruction at the Herald Tribune forum Wednesday night, and he probably will throw the whole weight of his influence into the coming "Battle of Washington" by the time the congressional committees assemble next month.

The American program in this Assembly has stirred up a dust-cloud of vituperation and abuse from the Russians and their friends. The result is not only to confuse opinion abroad, but also to frighten some of the smaller countries that do not want to be drawn into a Soviet-American conflict.

3. Pressure from the Assembly has not yet brought any change in Soviet attitudes, except possibly in the case of Korea. The outstanding example so far is the repeated Soviet refusal to admit Italy to the United Nations without the simultaneous admission of Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

The deadlock will be reflected in another way tomorrow when the Assembly makes one more effort to elect either the Ukraine or India to the Security Council. So far neither has been able to get a two-thirds majority; the United States and its western European friends are dead-set against the Ukraine, while the Latin-Americans were still bound—until now, at least—by their deal to support the Ukraine in exchange for Soviet support of Argentina.

Some hopeful souls at this Assembly think the Soviet attitude here has been nothing but a build-up in preparation for next month's meeting of the Foreign Ministers in London. They suspect the tough and unyielding Soviet position here is a forerunner to concessions in London.

To back up this theory, they note that Foreign Minister Molotov and Foreign Secretary Bevin have not been here, that Foreign Minister Bidault of France stayed only a short time, and that Secretary Marshall has held carefully aloof from the day-to-day mudslinging of the Assembly debates.

But when positions are taken as rigidly and as publicly as they are here, they become locked and immovable. So far, an outside observer cannot detect the slightest sign of preparation for an agreement and a beautiful reconciliation in London. Soviet spokesmen and their obedient followers are talking just as bitterly about Western plans for Germany as they did during the futile conference in Moscow last spring.

There is only one issue, in fact, on which the Assembly debates have shown Soviet Russia and the United States ready to work together. This is Palestine—and even on this question, both the Soviet and American positions are still general enough for plenty of disagreement to develop later.

Moreover, 11 Latin-American American countries seem determined not to approve a partition scheme, and their opposition, together with that of the Moslem nations, may be enough to block the needed two thirds majority.

Stalin Quick On the Deal

should be fair enough to consider the circumstances under which the promises were made. It was six weeks after the serious German counterattack on the Western Front. Although progress was being made in both the east and the west, neither the President nor anyone else at that time knew how long the Germans could hold out and how many casualties we would suffer before they surrendered. The President had with him at Yalta the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They knew the situation.

THE EVIDENCE is clear that the agreement was, in great part, a military decision. The military leaders already had their plans for the invasion of Japan under way. They undoubtedly gave the President their estimate of what such an invasion would cost us in human lives with Russia in the war and what the cost would be if Russia were out of the war. They naturally wanted Russia in the war to engage the Japanese armies in the north. But once Stalin knew our plans for invasion were under way, he knew also that we would want his armies and he could demand more for them. Mr. Stalin is not bashful about making demands.

Nor should President Roosevelt be critized for keeping the agreement secret. The Soviet Union was party to a treaty with Japan and we could not announce Russia's intention to go to war with her. Furthermore, Russias military strength was then concentrated on the German campaign. Any hint of agreement would have been an invitation to the Japanese troops on Russia's borders to launch an invasion. It was in the interest of all of us to allow the Soviets 90 days after Germany's surrender to transfer troops from the European front. It is, therefore, quite understandable that both Marshal Stalin and President Roosevelt wished to maintain strict secrecy.

Toward the end of the conference, Marshal Stalin entertained at dinner. At the time, the press quoted one of the Americans present as saying 45 toasts were proposed. I am willing to believe it, but the simple statement certainly is misleading. Unexplained, it would indicate the diners were thoroughly intoxicated. The fact is that with each toast, the diners took only a sip of wine and many made the gesture without the sip. The dinner lasted four hours. Forty-five sips of wine in four hours, during which time enough food was consumed to last 24 hours, did not intoxicate any one of that group. As for me, I do not drink wine.

ABOUT the time we reached the soup course, I noticed Mr. Vyshinski, who was sitting near me pouring water into his vodka glass. Since vodka is the color of water, I decided if he could do it, I could. In the confusion incident to everyone's standing up when a toast was proposed, I would pour water into my vodka glass. It was not very stimulating, but I do know what took place at the dinner. Because of some of the reports in the United States about Soviet officials getting intoxicated, it is only fair to say that all those with whom I have come in contact have been most temperate. Never have I seen a Soviet representative at a social affair who showed the slightest evidence of intoxication.

The Marshal was generous in the toast he proposed to Churchill and particularly generous in his remarks proposing the health of the President, whom he described as the "chief forger of the instruments which had led to the mobilization of the world against Hitler."

The Prime Minister toasted Marshal Stalin as the "mighty leader of a mighty nation whose people had driven the tyrants from her soil." The President spoke with pride of the unity that characterized the relations among the three countries, and expressed hope it would continue.

One statement of Stalin's that interested me was: "It is not so difficult to keep unity in time of war since there is a joint aim to defeat the common enemy, which is clear to everyone. The difficult task will come after the war when diverse interests tend to divide the Allies. It is our duty to see that our relations in peacetime are as strong as they have been in war."

I CAN testify to the accuracy of his prophecy, and I share his views as to our duty.

When toasts had been proposed to all the military chieftains and the heroes of the war on land, sea and in the air, I proposed a toast "to the people of our respective countries—the workers on farms and in factories—who did not wear the uniform but whose contribution made possible our victories." The Marshal left his place and came to clink his glass with mine in approval of the sentiment. The truth is, he is a very likable person.

The report of the Yalta Conference was released simultaneously from London, Moscow and Washington on Monday afternoon, February 12. All the Allied nations responded favorably and American public opinion was especially enthusiastic. The Philadelphia Record called the conference the "greatest United Nations victory of the war." The New York Herald Tribune declared that "the overriding fact" is that the conference "has produced another great proof of Allied unity, strength and power of decision." And Time magazine asserted: "All doubts about the Big Three's ability to cooperate in peace as well as in war seem now to have been swept away."

That was how I felt about it. There is no doubt that the tide of Anglo-Soviet-American friendship has reached a new high. But President Roosevelt had barely returned to American soil when the tide began to ebb.

Mr. Byrnes resigned in April, 1945, at Director of the Office of War Mobilization and returned to his home at Spartanburg, S. C. The next few days brought the death of President Roosevelt, and the day after the funeral at Hyde Park President Truman asked Mr. Byrnes to become Secretary of State. Why the change was not announced for some months and the general problems faced in Washington at the close of the war in Europe are explained in tomorrow's installment of "Speaking Frankly."

Reds Hit at Byrnes, Harriman

Moscow, Oct. 19 (AP).—Pravda declared today James F. Byrnes was a "war instigator" and said Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman aspired to be the leader of "American imperialism."

The Communist Party newspaper described Byrnes' plan in his book "Speaking Frankly" for Germany as follows:

1. To join the French zone with the combined British and American zones.

2. To conclude a separate peace with the western zones.

3. To call on the Soviet Union to withdraw its forces from Eastern Germany and, if it refuses, to call on the United Nations to evict the Russians.

"This cannot be understood otherwise than as a direct appeal for war with the Soviet Union," the paper declared.

Pravda called Harriman, wartime American Ambassador to Moscow, a "warmonger" and said that his recent address (before the Inland Daily Press Association in Chicago last Tuesday) was "the second edition of Churchill's speech in Fulton (Mo.)."

Harriman had said recent formation of a new nine-nation Communist organization probably resulted from fear "that their aggressive program for taking over Europe" would be forestalled by the Marshall Plan.

Poles Quiz 2 Embassy Employes

Warsaw, Oct. 19 (AP).—Authoritative sources said today two employes of the United States and British embassies in Warsaw had been arrested and questioned by Poland's security police Friday and one of them was still imprisoned.

A U. S. embassy source said Mrs. Wanda Sgoka, an American citizen, employed as an embassy clerk, was seized by three security police while en route to her home in suburban Zalesie.

She was questioned five hours and finally released, showing evidence of bruises and maltreatment, this informant said.

The British employe, Charles Whitehead, who is attached to the commercial attache's office, also was seized Friday. He is held in jail in Warsaw. Whitehead is understood to be a Polish citizen.

Both the U. S. and British embassies were expected to protest the incidents at the Polish foreign ministery Monday.

Security police recently have been arresting any Pole particularlyfriendly with British or Americans.

Democrats Unite Against Czech Reds

Prague, Oct. 19 (AP).—Czechoslovakia's Social Democrats announced today they had merged into one National Party, the nation's first, and would continue to fight any merger with the Communists.

Heretofore, each party has had Czech branches for Bohemia and Moravia and a Slovak branch.

A proclamation published by Pravo Lidu, the party's newspaper, announced the step. The merger brought Slovakia's Social Democrats out of hiding as a "labor party," and ended a month-long association with the Communists, the dominant party, on economic and planning programs.

The Social Democrats of all Czechoslovakia, including the Slovak Labor Party members, polled 900,000 votes in the last election, and the Communists 2,694,000 votes. The "Labor Party" flag was adopted by Slovak followers of the party under a wartime agreement with the Communists. Social Democrats expressed hope they would now attract many Slovaks who voted for Communists because they "did not know what a labor party was."

It was not clear what impact the merger would have on the national front government of Communist Premier Klement Gottwald, in which all parties are represented. It appeartd, however, that the representation would continue as before.

The Social Democrats ranked fifth in returns from the parliamentary election of May 26, 1946, with 12.11 per cent of the votes.

Social Democrats hold 37 seats in the 300-seat Assembly. The Slovak Labor Party has two representatives.

China Wants a Voice In Korea Troop Plan

New York, Oct. 19 (AP).—Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Shih-chieh said today that the date and conditions of Soviet and American troop withdrawals from Korea should be fixed by the United Nations after consultation with China, Britain, Russia and the United States.

Secretary of State Marshall proposed to the United Nations that the withdrawal details be worked out by the U. N. after consultations among the United States, Russia and the Koreans.

2000 Children Stolen in Soviet Zone, They Charge

Berlin, Oct. 19 (AP).—An authoritative informant said today the Roman Catholic bishops of Germany have protested to the Allied Control Council against what they called the "kidnaping" of more than 2000 German boys and girls in the Soviet zone since the beginning of the occupation.

The church's hierarchy as a body thus followed up in the "name of humanity and justice" a protest first voiced publicly by Count Konrad Cardinal von Preysing of Berlin in a Whitsuntide sermon late in June.

Private efforts of parents to obtain information from Soviet authorities on the whereabouts or fate of their children were fruitless, the informant said.

Reds Invest China Power, Coal Sources

Nanking, Oct. 19 (AP). — The sources of electricity and coal for the big government-held Manchurian cities of Changchun and Mukden were under violent Communist attack tonight, with the official Central News Agency acknowledging that the situation was "precarious."

Late agency dispatches said the Communists had broken into the inner defense perimeter of Kirin, 60 miles east of Changchun, and were strongly assaulting the garrison. Kirin controls Changchun's electric power. The city was isolated from Changchun when Communists cut the railway.

Fushun, great open-pit coal mining center 20 miles east of Mukden, also was closely threatened. Government offices in Manchuria and North China were ordered not to light stoves until November 15, despite freezing weather.

While government dispatches told of killing 2000 Communists in a 10-hour fight today at Tehwei, 46 miles northeast of Changchun, and more than 100 in a brush with a government armored column between Changchun and Kirin, the fuel situation for all nationalist China was becoming critical.

Five of Manchuria's seven coal-producing areas were in Communist hands and only a trickle had been coming from the Fushun fields before the current attack.

De Gaulle's Party Runs Up Early Lead in French Vote

tion officials in the capital said the polling by midafternoon was 10 per cent heavier than at the same hour in the 1945 municipal balloting.

The voting came as the climax to a bitter campaign in which national and international issues loomed as large as purely local issues. For many the vote was on a strict basis of Communists or anti-Communists, of demonstrating sympathy for America and the Marshall Plan, or for the Soviet Union and the stand taken by the new Communist international organization.

Communists Holding Ground

The election held immediate importance in that it provided a measure of the popularity of the government of Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier, who excluded the Communists from his cabinet five months ago.

Gains or losses by the Communists will presage the way the nation is heading.

In 1946, at the time of the last National Assembly election, the Communists polled more than five million votes or 28.2 per cent of those cast. In the 1945 municipal elections the vote was approximately the same.

In many places the Communists generally were holding their ground. An exact comparison of Communist and anti-Communist strength with the 1945 municipal elections was impossible because of the numerous coalitions the Communists then formed principally with the radical-Socialists who now form an important part of De Gaulle's group. There was no anti-Communist coalition as such in the 1945 elections.

Should the Communists show a gain now, it would be difficult to keep them out of the cabinet.

Communists in the cabinet would exert strong influence on the foreign policy of the government, which at present is participating in the Marshall Plan, opposed by the Communist international information bureau at Belgrade. French Communists participated in creation of the bureau.

The men and women of France picked 38,000 municipal councils. The polls closed at 5 p. m., GMT (noon, Eastern Standard Time), but announcement of the results was not likely until tomorrow morning because of the complicated election laws.

In 448 cities of over 9000 population the voting was final. In towns under 9000 the balloting was not final, with runoff elections to be held next Sunday where candidates for the six-year terms as councilors have not obtained absolute majorities.

Beside the main parties, others participating are the conservative Radical-Socialists and rightist Republican Party of Liberty (PRL).

Socialists Join With Communists

In general the political situation in France was complex and it was difficult to draw clear lines between the Communists and anti-Communists.

The division was sharpest between the Communists and the RPF.

De Gaulle has charged that two-thirds of Europe is "implacably directed by the Soviet dictatorship" and blamed Communists for labor strife.

In many municipalities the parties formed a variety of alliances. In several districts the Communists and Socialists put together a common list of candidates.

In two towns, Vitry le Francois near Reims and Villenueve-sur-Lot in the southwest, the Communist candidates ran up against an anti-Communist coalition of Socialists, De Gaullists, Popular Republicans and extreme rightists.

In other places the Radical-Socialists merged with the De Gaullists, occasionally joined by the Socialists or the Popular Republicans.

General's Brother in Race

In Paris the battle of 90 municipal council seats was between autonomous Communist, Socialist, MRP, De Gaullist and right tickets. The Radical-Socialist candidates ran under De Gaulle's banner. One of the RFP candidates was Pierre de Gaulle, brother of the general.

Ramadier flew back to Paris to tackle the troubled labor situation after voting early at Decazeville, small village in central France where he is mayor.

Agreement on the subway and bus strike appeared near with the Communist - dominated general confederation of labor strikers having called a mass meeting tomorrow to discuss a compromise offer from the government.

More menacing was a veiled threat from the Paris syndical union that a general strike might be called at a session of union leaders tomorrow to draft overall demands on the government.

VA to Study Fertility in Paralyzed GIs

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Veterans Administration plans a special research project into the fertility problems of World War IIs 1600 paraplegics, it was learned yesterday.

At the same time, VA medical chiefs have rejected a proposal for setting up an artificial insemination clinic for married former GIs who suffered a loss of natural function.

The research project, to cost $13,600, is aimed at assisting veterans whose spinal cord has been cut so that they are paralyzed below the point of injury. Approval of the National Research Council's Committee on Medical Problems must be obtained before the project can be launched.

Suggested by Veterans

Suggestions for the fertility research project and the artificial insemination clinic stem from the veteran-paraplegics themselves, particularly those who are married.

The clinic, as proposed, would provide for artificially transferring the male reproductive cells from the paralytic husband to the wife.

The proposal, discussed by the medical chiefs at a conference here, was turned down, however, on the grounds that the problem is outside the scope of VA hospital care and treatment. The problem, it was felt, is too involved with controversial religious, legal and social questions.

The approved project calls for a study of the paralyzed veterans in the VA hospital at Van Nuys, Calif., under Dr. Ernest Bors, chief of the paraplegic center there.

To Stimulate Fertility

Preliminary studies indicate that paraplegics may be incapable of creating fertile reproductive cells. The research project would seek means to stimulate fertility.

Doughboys suffering paraplegic injuries in the First World War were doomed to die within a couple of years from complicating factors. New surgical and medical rehabilitation techniques, however, have given the paralyzed victims a chance to live their normal life span.

Paraplegic veterans receive $360 a month in disability compensation, and a free automobile. Legislation is pending to provide them, free or at half-cost, specially built homes so that they can live near normal lives despite their paralysis.

London, Oct. 19 (INS).—The controlled Sofia radio claimed tonight that another plot to overthrow the Bulgarian government has been discovered and 130 of the alleged ringleaders arrested.

As heard in London by Reuters, the broadcast said the plot uncovered in the city of Plovdiv had "extensive ramifications."

Cost Of Tactlessness

On the eve of the French municipal elections held yesterday, which may decide whether the present government can survive in the face of growing Communist opposition, Senator Bridges told a Paris press conference that he and other visiting members of the Senate Appropriations Committee had advised the French Government to take strong action against communism and Communist-led strikes to speed American assistance. He expressed gratification that Premier Ramadier and Foreign Minister Bidault had assured the touring Senators that communism would not be in the ascendancy in France provided she received "reasonable cooperation" from us.

These and similar indiscreet remarks broadcast to the world by the Senator from New Hampshire will be grist for Soviet propaganda mills. They will rejoice the hearts of those French Communists who follow Moscow's lead in denouncing our foreign-aid program as an American plot to control the political destinies of western Europe. Senator Bridges has, we do not doubt, helped to swell the Communist vote by his tactless utterances, and if Messrs. Ramadier and Bidault felt free to express themselves, they, too, would probably indulge in some harsh anti-American sentiments.

It is strange, indeed, that a seasoned politician should go out of his way to offend the sensibilities of a friendly people by ill-considered utterances of this sort. In private conversation with governmental authorities, Mr. Bridges and his colleagues might properly stress their concern about the French political outlook and express fears that a Communist-dominated France would forfeit the sympathy of the American people and jeopardize passage of the Marshall program. But to publicize such warnings converts what might be considered friendly advice into an offensive kind of ultimatum that cannot fail to arouse the indignation of an independent, spirited people quick to resent external interference in their domestic affairs.

Student Exchange

There has been a drop since last year of 40 per cent in the rate at which foreign students are coming to this country to attend American universities. The fact has political implications of no small importance—especially when one notes that at the same time there has been a sharp rise in foreign attendance at Soviet institutions. Dr. Kenneth Holland of the State Department's Office of Information and Educational Exchange scarcely overstated the situation when he observed the other day that "we are very rapidly losing our leadership in the field of international culture."

The principal reason for the decline in student migration here is, of course, the dollar shortage. Among European countries especially, dollars are conserved for more urgent needs. The reason for the increased flow to Russia is that the Soviet government makes rubles available for the purpose. Indeed, according to Dr. Holland, it offers large numbers of scholarships, board, room and tuition, and treats its young visitors better than it does its native sons. They come mainly from the Moscow-dominated Balkan states, but strenuous efforts are being made to draw them from western Europe as well. The idea, no doubt, is to send them home eventually, devoted disciples of the gospel according to Josef Stalin.

If the United States wants disciples of democracy—and foreign students who have studied here have in the past proved very effective ones—we shall have to do more than we are now doing to encourage them. Under the Fulbright law, the State Department is making arrangements with countries which purchased some of our surplus war goods to make funds in their own currencies available to finance scholarships and professorships for Americans abroad. This will undoubtedly prove valuable; it is expected that some 2000 Americans will be able to go abroad annually through the assistance provided by this law. It helps to bring foreigners here, however, only to the extent to which foreign currencies paid for the purchase of American surplus goods can be used to defray transportation costs. It provides no dollars for scholarships or tuition.

We have a reciprocal arrangement with Latin America under the act of 1939 to provide dollars for exchange students. A bill introduced by Representative Mundt would extend the same arrangement to European countries. It would prove, in our judgment, a most valuable means of promoting understanding of this country and its ideas. Private foundations have done much, and can do more, to help foreign students share in American academic life. Their efforts should be fostered and coordinated. But the Government itself needs to make a direct contribution to this basic aspect of an effective American information program.

Information First

The Krug report on National Resources and Foreign Aid does not answer questions as to how much assistance this country can or should give to Europe. Its chief purpose is to present up-to-date information and estimates of the country's physical resources and productive capacities, with a view to determining whether we can support an extended export program during the next five years without seriously depleting our exhaustible resources or depriving American producers and consumers of essential materials and consumable goods.

Even this kind of statistical appraisal of our physical capacity is based on numerous assumptions that may not be realized. For instance, the report assumes that the present high level of employment and business activity will be maintained and that the foreign-aid program will cover a five-year period, during which needs will diminish. It further assumes that the labor force will increase at the rate of about a half million yearly, and that there will be an average annual increase of about 3 per cent in labor productivity in manufacturing and mining. Estimates of agricultural production during coming years are necessarily subject to a wide margin of error, since they are based on the premise that average weather conditions will prevail. Hence the heartening conclusion that our national resources are "physically sufficient to preserve the national security and the American standard of living, and at the same time support a considerable foreign-aid program" offers no sure guide as to how much we shall have to spare for others.

Nevertheless, the Krug survey is an indispensable preliminary to the formulation of specific plans for foreign aid. It brings together basic data essential for the use both of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, assigned the task of appraising the economic impact of foreign aid, and of the Harriman Committee that is trying to determine the character and quantities of our material resources that may be "safely and wisely utilized." All three studies, covering the physical, economic and fiscal aspects of the export-aid program, will have to be integrated before a workable legislative plan can be made ready for presentation to Congress.

Another important reservation that should be kept in mind in evaluating the conclusions reached is that what we can do in the way of aiding others does not depend entirely upon what we produce or upon the volume of domestic demand. It depends also upon our willingness to make the adjustments and sacrifices involved in releasing relatively scarce goods for export. In a foreword to the report Secretary Krug emphasizes this fact and points out that the limits of what our economy can do are exceedingly elastic, as shown by the experience of the war years. For instance, we are currently undertaking to carry through a wheat export program that might be considered beyond our capacity, judged solely in relation to available supplies and domestic demands. But that program is undoubtedly feasible, if we tighten our belts and resolve to eat less. However, the survey emphasizes the need for additional governmental controls over wheat utilization as a means of increasing our future contributions to the relief of world shortages of this staple foodstuff.

Surveys of the supply of and demand for other commodities on the limited list of key exports are included in the report. In most instances such exports do not claim a large percentage of output at current high production levels. They are not, relatively speaking, as large as before the war. However, the extraordinarily high levels of domestic demand for certain commodities, notably steel, create serious short-run supply problems that necessitate extension and expansion of export controls. Such controls are necessary "not only to protect domestic interest, but also to assure an orderly flow of short-supply commodities abroad, and thus promote sound international relations." The implications of that statement are plain: the experts are in effect saying that, despite our ability to render considerable material aid to Europe, we may impede production at home and fail to give the maximum aid possible to foreign countries unless we make certain that our exports of scarce commodities are distributed according to an orderly plan designed to reach areas of greatest need.

Shock To Complacency

Although we complain about inflated prices, the majority of Americans are in a complacent frame of mind—some because they are enjoying the high profits from soaring prices, others because they are receiving wages and salaries that are sufficiently high to enable them to cope with rising living costs.

To an increasing number, however, inflation spells destitution and recourse to public charity, as shown by the report of New York City's Welfare Commissioner. That report clearly indicates that our vaunted riches and prosperity rest on an unstable foundation that may collapse unless the forces of inflation are soon checked.

The world's richest city is now confronted by a relief problem of great and rapidly expanding magnitude. Its Welfare Department is accordingly asking for 224 million dollars for its next relief budget—an increase of 82 million dollars over the present year. Increases in food and clothing prices account for 32 million dollars of this total, while the remainder is needed to take care of a greatly increased relief load. The actual number of persons cared for by the Welfare Department has risen 80 per cent during the past two years—from 145,300 to nearly 261,700. Decreased job openings for older people, women and the unskilled are largely responsible for the heavier welfare load, it is stated, although the influx of Puerto Ricans and Southern Negroes has been a contributory factor. There has also been a marked rise in the number of families receiving aid to supplement inadequate earnings, and State unemployment insurance benefits. More than 8700 veterans who have exhausted their benefits under the GI Bill of Rights were also relief recipients last August.

Although the numbers on relief are still small compared with the more than a million and a half persons being cared for at the depth of the prewar depression the trend is alarming, especially as it results from conditions that undoubtedly prevail in greater or lesser degree in other parts of the country. If prices continue to mount, more and more people now barely able to make both ends meet will be added to the list of relief applicants. While we are helping other nations to become self-supporting, we must see to it that our own people are not left to the mercies of charity, because of a failure to protect them against the pressure of rising living costs.

King Ludd: 1947 Model

The point of principle upon which Mr. J. Caesar Petrillo has declared war to the death against the phonographs and juke boxes of these United States is an interesting modern variant of Luddism. The Luddites, as you remember, were the handweavers and other artisans of Yorkshire, Lancashire, Derbyshire and some other parts of England who, in the early nineteenth century, undertook to destroy the machines which had thrown them out of work and reduced them to destitution. It is not apparent that many members of Mr. Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians are now in danger of starving because mechanical music has destroyed the market for their special skills; but Mr. Petrillo is making sure that there never will be such a danger. No group of sane men, argues Mr. Petrillo, will collaborate in maintaining an industry that may deprive the members of the group of their means of livelihood.

But if Mr. Petrillo's principles are essentially those of the Luddites, his strategy is somewhat different. The Luddites conducted their war against machinery by rioting and violence; Mr. Petrillo has chosen the method of embargo and slow starvation. The musicians will make no more recordings and thus the record shops and the juke boxes will be deprived of new tunes to offer their volatile and easily surfeited customers.

This to be sure is not the first time that Mr. Petrillo has decreed the extinction of the phonograph industry; but, as a man who prides himself on being reasonable, he has hitherto allowed himself to be persuaded to stop short of a Carthaginian conquest and to be satisfied with heavy reparations and indemnities. Mr. Petrillo's war of a few years ago was concluded by an armistice, under which the record manufacturers agreed that a stipulated portion of the price of each record sold should be contributed to the union's welfare fund. This tribute, however, was outlawed by the Taft-Hartley Act, which made it illegal for any union > to cause or attempt to cause an employer to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value in the nature of an exaction, for services which are not performed or not to be performed.

It is clear from the records of the conference committee which decided upon the final form of the Taft-Hartley Act that this clause was aimed specifically at Mr. Petrillo and his methods. Thus it becomes not so much a show-down between Mr. Petrillo and the phonograph-record manufacturers as between Mr. Petrillo and Congress. It is perhaps significant that Mr. Petrillo has taken the aggressive and that the record manufacturers are eager, if possible, to appease him again.

As far as the musical public is concerned the hardships and agonies of Mr. Petrillo's war will fall mostly upon the devotees of popular music. All the better known examples of what is called "classical" music are already available in a variety of recordings by different artists or orchestras. Those who prefer symphonic or operatic music, then, will suffer relatively little. Thus Mr. Petrillo's war has, like that of the Luddites, esthetic as well as economic and political aspects. It is interesting to recall that one of the objects of the Luddites was to restore the ancient standards of quality which had been debased by the shoddy products of the machines. This is probably not one of Mr. Petrillo's purposes; nevertheless it is possible that hepcats and jive jumpers may be driven to dancing to the waltzes of Chopin or the minuets of Mozart.

Welfare Budget Cuts

The recent drastic cuts in relief budgets can come as no surprise to anyone who has been following the ups and downs of the District of Columbia public assistance organization. Like those primitive one-celled organisms we used to watch through a microscope in biology laboratory, the powers that govern relief appropriations seem to have one and only one reaction to any and all stimuli—economy. With true far-sighted economy no one can quarrel. But when economy means "a penny saved is a dollar spent," the single-reactioned organism becomes inadequate.

In August, 1947, necessitated by the recent cuts in appropriations, far-reaching changes in relief budgets and eligibility requirements were made. For instance, an individual otherwise eligible for assistance may not cut living costs by sharing quarters with a self-sustaining relative, even though that relative be an elderly charwoman barely able to support herself. Again, an individual whose doctor prescribes a special diet, or who needs extra food in order to regain employability, may not have an adequate food allowance for this purpose.

The Board of Public Welfare has been forced to make drastic changes in policy in order to stay within present appropriations, contrary to established ideals of social work, humane practice, and plain common sense. For screening cases beyond a minimum point in order to cut immediate relief costs can only result in passing the burden to other agencies at greater public expense by reducing the health level of many to the point where hospitalization is required, and by breaking up homes which might be maintained at a healthful, socially sound level, with eventual cost to the public in terms of juvenile delinquency and added medical care. Private agencies have exhausted their funds trying to alleviate the situation; here again, the citizens pay from private funds what is the legitimate expense of the taxpayer.

Well-padded patrons of the "worthy poor" to the contrary, living on relief has never been a picnic, and the probing investigation and perpetual screening endured in order to obtain that sometimes questionable boon have, with extremely rare exceptions, always eliminated all but the truly needy. The individual on relief today, even though his grant has not been cut, has less than half the purchasing power he had before inflation struck. Even to the most economy-minded citizen, if he is cognizant of the public assistance picture, the present relief eligibility requirements appear entirely too short-sighted for an organization endeavoring to rehabilitate unemployables, nurture future citizens of a democracy, and even to sustain permanent unemployables at a humane minimum level.

Foreign Mailing

If our help is so much needed abroad, why does the postoffice make it not only expensive to send parcels abroad (re Mr. Majower's letter, October 14), but also exceedingly difficult?

At least one postoffice, Suitland, does not accept parcels for overseas. This I learned after carrying a 22-pound package there, although I had telephoned the postoffice several times requesting "complete information" about sending packages to Germany. Neither did I know that a summary of the package contents would not suffice as a declaration, as it did in prewar days, but that a complete itemized list would have to be made out on a postoffice form. My husband found this out, after carrying the package to a downtown postoffice, with only a vague idea of its contents.

I was enthusiastic about sending packages abroad but, after the expense and inconvenience caused us by the United States Postoffice, my enthusiasm is considerably dulled.

Community Chest Scope

It is suggested that the Community Chest organization, with the aid of Washington newspapers, present a picture to all the people of Washington of its main objectives and needs and how local charitable institutions fit into this picture.

There is considerable confusion at present as to just what is the mission of the Community Chest. In addition to helping people who need charity, donors should know the scope and nature of its social and welfare work. The matter as to whether or not a part of the contributions is forwarded to parent organizations in New York or elsewhere should be cleared up, and if so, which organizations and the reasons.

A clear cut picture of just what the money to be donated is to be used for and where it is to be used, is what the public needs in order to act intelligently and generously.

Friendship By Race

I have just read with some interest, John Ball's story in The Washington Post of October 12, on Archie Alexander, Negro engineer.

I was somewhat surprised, both by Mr. Ball's "His English is excellent" (did he expect an American graduate of an American college to speak Fiji?) and by the little paragraph which says: "He says . . . that he has been treated with kindness and friendliness by the white man's world. Yet he finds his social companionship with his own race, and neither asks nor expects to be admitted (italics mine) into the white man's society" (italics also mine).

I trust Mr. Alexander has been misinterpreted by a statement so fatuous and so gauche.

It is assumed by most persons of intelligence and culture that friends are where and as we find them or they find us. To assume, on the contrary, that companionship and friendship are commodities either coveted or doled out on the basis of race, seems to me to be pretty silly.

Mr. Ball needs to move around a bit more and brush off some of his illusions about the "white man's society."

Incidentally, it is this kind of illusion which fosters residential covenants and segregated schools.

CONSTANCE E. H. DANIEL.

Newell's Defense of Segregation

I feel compelled to address a few remarks to the story in The Washington Post on October 15, in which Mr. Clifford H. Newell, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, offers his theory of natural segregation for the District of Columbia.

It is comforting to learn that Mr. Newell has " no personal feeling or animosity toward Negroes." But if this statement is true, and if Mr. Newell actually has, "the highest admiration for all of the colored race who are making an honest effort to elevate themselves and become good American citizens," I do not see why he feels compelled to call this very effort "a stumbling block" to our progress. It is so, he said, because every Negro does not possess this quality and hence deserve the same recognition.

I wonder if Mr. Newell cannot discern the same failings, in his own racial group, and for that matter, in every racial, religious and cultural group. It seems that he wants all Negroes to achieve perfection before he is willing to grant the basic and fundamental privileges to any of us.

Mr. Newell demonstrates that he is one of those persons who has failed to realize the purpose and effect of the Civil War, for he points out that Washington was "originally a typical Southern city with all of the traditions and manners of living in the South—that the white people preferred to live in communities of white residents," all of which appears to be true. But following this he goes on: "The colored people seemed to prefer the same arrangement so they could live by themselves." Here he overlooks the simple fact that in those days of the "good old traditions of our Republic," Negroes were largely slaves, without the benefits of citizenship later to be granted by the Fourteenth Amendment to our Constitution, and they were herded together in slave quarters by their masters. They had no choice in the matter, hence there was no show of preference. So what appears to him to have been preference or choice was not preference or choice then, nor is there any such preference or choice among Negroes now to live together.

Finally Mr. Newell turns to the question of taxation and says: "I am sure that no one will dispute the fact that very little of the tax money in this city is paid by colored persons." It could not have occurred to him that every tenant who rents land pays taxes on that land as a part of his rent. Further every resident of the District pays taxes when he buys cigarettes, pays his telephone bill, goes to the theater, buys gasoline, and for that matter when he buys food and clothing. U. SIMPSON TATE.

Washington.

The intelligent Negroes of my acquaintance, and I dare say it is a wider acquaintance than Mr. Newell's, are most vitally interested in securing to themselves benefits commensurate with their "intelligence;" among these the right to buy property, limited only by their ability to pay and their personal desires regarding its location. This is a fact, in spite of Mr. Newell's "thought" that "good" Negroes of his knowledge have found that they raise a hardier brood when they do not venture beyond the confines of the ghetto.

The figures which he has cited are indeed disproportionate, but this is attributable to the high cost of maintaining segregation. If he finds the cost excessive, he may conceive merit in wiser use of available facilities. There may be an obscure justification for building a schoolhouse to accommodate 20 Negro children of a given neighborhood when there is already a school in that neighborhood with almost 100 empty seats.

Mr. Newell says the "older residents" are not the ones trying to move out of the ghettoes. I was born here over 60 years ago and I can assure Mr. Newell that only those who have been handicapped economically are satisfied to live in the restricted districts. The colored citizens who believe in the American system of free-enterprise, whose sons have fought in all our wars to maintain our Government, are not happy to be denied jobs because of color, to be denied recreation and equal education because of a segregated pattern, and will never rest until our Nation in deed as well as in theory becomes democratic.

Anatomy Of Prejudice

COMMUNITY OF THE FREE, by Yves R. Simon; translated from the French by Willard R. Trask. (Holt, $3.)

M. Simon, a French Neo-Thomist philosopher, now teaching in the United States, is here concerned with a problem that I dare say has perplexed a good many of us. The problem is to explain how it was that so many decent and fundamentally honest persons could have passively accepted or actively concurred in the great organized evils of the recent years, as for example in the virulent anti-Semitism of the Nazis. Among such persons, as M. Simon is well aware, were many of his compatriots and more than a few of his coreligionists. To find an explanation M. Simon felt required to undertake a philosophic analysis of the current historical crisis in the light of which he undertakes to redefine the principles on which he believes a just society, free of the tensions and hatreds which seem likely to devour our own may be constituted.

In the bourgeois-liberal society, says M. Simon, there exist "mechanisms of illusion" whereby "those engaged in corrupting public morality" are "able to place at the service of crime wills endowed with a certain rectitude." M. Simon tells us that there is nothing about the doctrines of racism which are of themselves attractive to the human mind. We must not, therefore, look for the origin of racial hatreds in mere biological fallacies, but in concealed economic and psychological impulses. We may start, then, with the condition of society in which the one class, in exchange for mere subsistence, gives its labor to maintain the other in a state of relative ease and comfort. Where the exploiters and the exploited are of the same race, or where the question of race has not been raised, such a division of society is precarious, for the injustice of it can be readily exposed. But where the exploiters and exploited are of different races, the injustice may be supported by specious rationalization, and the conscience more easily appeased. Thus "the Prussian Junker used to feel more at ease in his relations with Polish peasants than in his relations with Prussian peasants" and "the white employer often feels quite at ease in his relations with the Negro laborer." The rationalization is complete if we are able "to imagine that our partner does not belong to the human species, that between him and ourselves there is no unity of nature and no common descent." Another economic factor predisposing to race antagonism is competition. As the pace accelerates, the hard-pressed member of an overcrowded profession is tempted by the idea of removing, by some means, a certain number of his competitors.

Thus, says M. Simon, arises a familiar form of boycott, for which it is convenient to find a rationalization. One form of rationalization is the numerus clausus, which is to say the principle that the proportion of the members of a given group in a given profession should be the same as that of the group to the whole community. To apply the principle logically and impartially would, as M. Simon observes, mean establishing a quota for Bretons in the French navy and for Corsicans in the gendarmarie and for "country gentlemen in the diplomatic corps;" in the United States it would mean restricting the number of Germans in the brewing industry, the number of Catholics in the administration of large cities, the number of Poles in symphony orchestras and the number of Irish in the police and fire departments. The consequences of this would be "a dilerium of discord which no community could possibly resist."

But the predisposing factors to racism, it seems, are by no means entirely economic. There is also the desire of superiority for its own sake; that is to say the gratification of belonging to an aristocracy, or elite. The reason, says M. Simon, that real estate values fall when Negro families enter a district hitherto inhabited by whites, is essentially the same as the reason that the French bourgeois buys himself a second class ticket rather than ride with peasants and proleterians or use the same waiting rooms at the stations. In other words, racism is a cheap way of acquiring aristocracy, since it requires neither ancestors, nor talent, nor manners, and has therefore a dangerously seductive appeal to the rootless masses of the modern world. But this desire for aristocracy is after all a desire for communion; a desire to belong and thereby to escape an intolerable isolation.

From inferior races or classes we proceed to what M. Simon calls "accursed groups," which become the object of violent suspicion and fear. An "accursed group" is any small and distinct minority to which some unusual importance or influence is attributed; which is construed as pursuing secret aims and to be capable of concerted action, and which is invested in the popular imagination with a certain aura of mystery. As examples M. Simon cites the Jesuits, the Freemasons, the Communists and the Jews. Their psychological function is to provide an explanation for what may be otherwise inexplicable, since the idea of pure chance is repulsive to the modern mind. Thus, says M. Simon, philosophers who reject the concept of free will, exhibit precisely to the same superstition as those who see the hand of the Jesuits or the Freemasons in every strike or financial crisis or street riot. Here M. Simon perceives the familiar psychological process of transference, that is, an evasion of the possibility of personal responsibility or guilt. The evil is, so to speak, rationalized out of existence, by consigning it to a world that we and our friends do not inhabit.

Decide We Must

ATHENS, OCT. 19.—In every nerve center of Europe, the same phenomenon repeats itself with a kind of crude monotony. Because we have been too little and too late in the past, demands are now pouring in on Washington from every quarter for instantaneous decisions of the gravest character, affecting the whole American future. As these words are written, the harassed artisans of American policy are probably being pressed for still another such decision by our Ambassador to Greece, Lincoln MacVeagh, and by the chief of military intelligence, Maj. Gen. William Chamberlin.

Under the Greek-Turkish-aid program, the American mission, ably headed by Dwight Griswold, is already charged with superintending Greek economic reconstruction and supplying the Greek army. A semblance of peace must first be restored to strife-torn Greece, however, if this American investment is not to be fruitless. Therefore, the signs are, here in Athens, that MacVeagh and Chamberlin will recommend American assumption of a third, really crucial responsibility in Greece—the responsibility for advising the Greek army on the actual conduct of its operations against the Communist guerillas.

The Greek government has taken the initiative in requesting this further assistance, and has indicated willingness to attach a very special weight to American military "advice." If plans laid here go through, the Griswold mission will be supplemented with an American military operational staff.

THE STAFF GROUP will be composed of a top echelon to work with the Greek general staff, skeleton staffs to be attached to each of the Greek army corps, and operational liaison units to work at the brigade and battalion levels.

The decision to send such a staff group will constitute open acknowledgment of an almost unlimited American strategic and political liability in Greece. Yet the remarkable body of men who are in charge of our effort here, are unanimous that the decision must be taken and without any further delay. President Truman can give the order on his own responsibility, under his constitutional powers as Commander in Chief. He will be asked to do so.

It must be admitted at once that these reports from Greece are based entirely on consultations with the Americans involved. As described by them, the position necessitating the radical new decision may be briefly outlined as follows:

The Andartes, as the Greek guerillas are called, number only 18,000, and approximately 60 per cent of their strength is now composed of kidnaped recruits, held in line by threats to murder them and their families. This increasing reliance on forced recruits has two important meanings. The sources from which Communist volunteers were drawn have now almost dried up. And the Communist leaders of the Andartes, being unable to rely absolutely on their men, can no longer freely use their best guerilla tactic of dispersal under attack. Thus the situation is favorable to a Greek army offensive.

UNFORTUNATELY, the Greek army is now largely immobilized. Heavily superior forces are always needed against guerillas, and especially in this case, where the guerillas are invulnerably based and supplied in Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania. The British trained the Greek army of 140,000 men as the cadre of a much bigger force, and thus assigned all but 40,000 men to supply and other duties behind the lines. Finally, the employment of the 40,000 available effectives is unhappily influenced by politics.

Students of our own past will recall how, in the Civil War, the Western Armies were at first tied down by the need to guard the politically important border States. Greek politics are even more pervasive than were American politics in the era of Secretary of War Simon Cameron, the man who would not steal a red-hot stove if it was nailed down.

Politics demand the defense of the more important cities and towns in northern Greece, and thus the Greek army's effectives are almost all tied up on guard duty. In fact, where the situation is worst, the Greek army has a brigade, entirely dispersed in guard detachments of companies and platoons, each within its own strong point. But the guerillas also have a brigade, commonly operate in battalion strength, and now enjoy absolute freedom of movement by night. The countryside is terrorized, communications are cut. The crops are not being harvested. The guarded strong points are full of able-bodied peasants who have taken refuge from kidnaping, and unless the trend is rapidly reversed, the situation must deteriorate to the point where the people will accept even the rule of the Andartes as preferable to the present chaos.

THE REMEDY now planned is in two parts. First, newly formed, lightly armed national guard units will take over defense of the strong points, which is, of course, important. Second, largely to separate military operations from politics, the American staff group will be sent to advise the Greek army in its offensive effort. The leading Americans here are convinced that this remedy will work, provided the Kremlin does not abandon its present flimsy pretense of nonintervention and order its Balkan puppet armies across the Greek border in naked aggression. But this would mean that the Kremlin wants war, which seems incredible.

Footnote To The Morgenthau Plan

IN "SPEAKING FRANKLY," former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes adds a number of details to a strange, and most unfortunate episode: the Morgenthau plan for Germany. These do not show conclusively whether or not President Roosevelt knew what the Morgenthau plan contained when he approved it at Quebec in September, 1944. They indicate, however, that he did not.

When the Morgenthau plan leaked to the press, Mr. Roosevelt sent a memorandum to Secretary Hull saying that someone had been giving statements to the newspapers "which are not fundamentally true." He added: "No one wants to make Germany a wholly agricultural nation again and yet somebody down the line has handed this out to the press. I wish we could catch and chastise him." This is reported by Mr. Byrnes.

MR. ROOSEVELT made an almost identical comment to this correspondent a few days after the Morgenthau plan leaked. He said heatedly that some one had completely misrepresented "Henry's ideas" to the press. I told him that the accounts I had seen checked pretty well with the information I had obtained, not only from critics who had seen the plan but from the Treasury. He replied that no such plan had been presented to him. At the moment, this suggested to me that the original Morgenthau plan had been toned down before being submitted to the White House. Further inquiry indicated, however, that even if it had been toned down, it had not been fundamentally changed. It did not call for a "wholly agricultural" Germany, but did propose to eradicate German heavy industry.

Mr. Byrnes reports that the President told Secretary of War Stimson, a sharp critic of the Morgenthau approach, that he (The President) and Mr. Stimson were not far apart in their ideas. Mr. Stimson then called the President's attention to the language in the Quebec agreement stating that the program is "looking forward to converting Germany into a country primarily agricultural and pastoral in its character." The President, Mr. Byrnes' account continues, replied that "he did not know he had initialed that particular language in the Quebec agreement. It must have been done, he said, without much thought."

The President's actions and words from then on, as reported by Mr. Byrnes, indicated that he was not committed, and never had been, to the original Morgenthau plan. On March 25, 1945, he approved a memorandum on a program for Germany prepared by the State Department after consultation with the Treasury and War Departments. This was used by the American delegation at Potsdam. It was a far cry from the original Morgenthau proposals.

MR. BYRNES reports that Prime Minister Churchill never mentioned the Quebec memorandum, either to President Truman or to him—indeed that nobody at Potsdam mentioned it. Yet Mr. Churchill had initialed it at Quebec jointly with Mr. Roosevelt. Probably he hadn't read it either.

2 Services' Workers On 'War' Duty

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the eight-hour day suspended for laborers and mechanics in the Army and Air Forces. His order returns them to wartime duty.

The order means that the laborers and mechanics who work more than eight hours in any single day must be paid at time and a half rates. Formerly, they were on a straight five-day week of eight hours, and they didn't draw overtime pay unless they were ordered to work beyond 40 hours on the sixth day of the week.

To speed completion of essential construction and to fulfill international commitments were given as the reasons for the order.

ARMY STORY: In filling out his claim for terminal leave, a former GI wrote this answer to the question which asked the relationship of his dependents: LEGAL WIFE AND TWO OTHERS.

STATE: I have a shocking letter from a conscious-stricken State Department official over the employe loyalty investigations under way in his agency. He admitted frankly that he was writing me since it was considered "unwise" to stick one's neck out by criticizing the department's security code.

He charges that once an employe is charged with something that there is no way for the personnel loyalty board to clear his record completely, no matter how innocent he is.

"I have in mind," he wrote, "cases where employes have been members of perfectly legitimate and proper organizations of a labor or liberal nature, but where the investigators have not made a distinction. I have been asked this question by a State Department investigator about one of my employes:

"Did he ever belong to a union or any other subversive organization?'

"I know that membership in Americans for Democratic Action, a strongly anti-Communist liberal group, has been enough to rule out an applicant for employment.

"Some day the department must get around to an adequate definition to apply to such cases. Meantime, however, there are going to be cases marked 'Charged With Disloyalty' and 'Case Closed for Lack of Sufficient Evidence' which by all fair standards of justice ought to be marked: 'Charged With Disloyalty—Acquitted!'

This is a damning indictment of State's loyalty program. I know the author to be honest, sincere and loyal beyond any doubt. And I won't reveal his name to any State investigator or anyone else for that matter.

FEDERAL SUPPLY laid off about 1000 employes last June. But about 400 here have been recalled to clean up the fiscal accounts of Lend-Lease and United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation. These temporary jobs will end about next June.

REORGANIZATION: The 12-man Hoover Commission to study Government reorganization meets again today. Under consideration for executive director are: Herbert Emmerich, director of the Public Administration Clearing House; Clarence Dykstra, former Selective Service director; Jack Blandford, former assistant director of the Budget Bureau, who is now working on administration of the Marshall plan, and Dr. Leonard White, a former Civil Service member, who is on the Chicago University faculty.

GPO: Officials in this agency hint they will have a tough time to get approval of a new pay raise for its 6000 employes here. The Public Printer must submit his recommendations for raises to the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing. He has been sounding out committee members without definite results.

GPO unions will ask for pay raises up to 30 per cent. But the most GPO employes can be expected to get, it's reported, is a raise of 12 cents an hour to bring them up to rates paid by private printing concerns here. The new raise won't become effective until December 18 at the earliest. Wage negotiations will get under way within a few days.

DEFENSE HOMES, an RFC subsidiary, owns two housing projects here which it hasn't been able to sell at any price. The projects are: George Washington Carver hall for Negro men, and Lucy Diggs Slowe hall for Negro women. Defense Homes is now advertising them for sale.

But Howard University has now asked that they be taken off the market. It hopes to work out an arrangement to take over both projects and to use them to house students.

PEOPLE: Morton Macartney has been appointed to head up all lending operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The lending powers recently were merged into a single unit in the sweeping RFC reorganization. Macartny was called out of retirement to take the new job . . . Lyle Belsley is secretary of the new National Security Resources Board. He was secretary of Atomic Energy . . . James O'Brien, formerly chief of the National Roster of Scientific Personnel, is working on manpower studies for the council.

N.Y. City Transport Men Get Anti-Red Union

The International Association of Machinists announced yesterday issuance of a charter to employes of the New York City Board of Transportation.

Harvey W. Brown, president of the anti-Communist I. A. M., said the local had been created upon the request of employes of the Board of Transportation "who desire to establish a sincere, honest, American labor union among New York's transit employes."

Russia Taking Home Palestine Armenians

Haifa, Palestine, Oct. 19 (AP).—More than 1100 Armenians are awaiting here the arrival Tuesday of the Russian ship Pobeda to return them to their homeland in Soviet Armenia.

They will be the first to go back to Russia from Palestine under auspices of the Soviet government. Many already have returned from other Middle Eastern countries.

Senator Sees 'Influence' on High Court

By The Associated Press

Senator Albert W. Hawkes (R., N. J.) yesterday criticized Senator Reed (R., Kans.) and the Interstate Commerce Commission for what he termed an attempt "to bring outside influence" on the Supreme Court.

The New Jersey Senator made public a statement protesting remarks by Reed, and a letter by the ICC to the Supreme Court regarding a suit involving reorganization of the Rock Island Railroad.

"Had I been consulted," Hawkes said, "I am certain that I would have admonished against such a course on the simple ground that I do not believe it is proper to bring outside influence to bear on so vital and important a matter as is now before the Supreme Court of the United States."

Reed was not available here for comment on Hawkes' statement.

Differences in Group

The Kansas Senator is chairman of an Interstate Commerce Subcommittee which has been investigating railroad reorganizations. Hawkes, a member, complained that Reed had failed to consult him in investigation matters.

On October 14, Reed told newsmen he was postponing "for a month or more" an investigation of the ICC administration of railroad reorganization laws because of a "change in ICC policy." Reed had previously protested that the ICC failed to release a number of railroads from receivership, although they had showed large wartime profits.

Senate Probe Called Off

He called off the Senate probe after the ICC wrote the Supreme Court on October 9 that there had been "material changes in the situation as it affects the debtor" in the Rock Island receivership case.

The ICC letter added that if the Supreme Court reviews actions of the lower Federal courts, then the commission was prepared to give a full hearing upon facts. Reed told a news conference he is confident the high court will send the Rock Island case back to the commission.

Another Hurricane Aims at Bermuda

Miami, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP).—A severe hurricane, with winds well over 100 miles an hour, moved toward Bermuda late today with indications it would continue northeastward in the Atlantic.

The Miami weather bureau said the storm was centered about 340 miles southwest of Bermuda and would pass close to that island late tonight or early tomorrow. It was the fourth of the season. The other three hit the United States.

$3000 Offered

Racketeers Seek Royal Rites Bids

London, Oct. 19 (AP).—Word has got around London that black marketeers have offered as much as £750 ($3000) each for invitations to the marriage of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten November 20. Presumably they would wish to resell at a profit.

But precautions are being taken. It is unlikely that racketeers will contrive to get even one invitation for the ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

Thousands Want To Go

Unofficial sources estimated today that, in addition to the many Britons eager to witness the rites, more than 5000 foreign visitors would be in London for the occasion, most of them vainly hoping to crowd into the Abbey. The Abbey accommodates no more than 2000.

The invitation card bears the royal crest and the guest's name. No more than that is known publicly of its style. The card will not be transferable, and it is understood an identification check will be made at the Abbey gates.

Prices for seats and standing space for views of the procession between Buckingham Palace and the Abbey continued to rise. One of the latest quotations is £900 ($3600) for one room in a Whitehall building which would not hold more than 30 persons.

Princess Elizabeth rested at Windsor after a busy week of shopping, conferences and letter writing. Lieutenant Mountbatten joined her for the weekend, driving from his naval station in Wiltshire.

British crooners plugged the topical new song, "Wedding March of the Royal Princess." West End bartenders drew upon their ingenuity—and not much else in these lean times—for a special commemorative drink. More royal wedding gifts were received at the palace, and others were on the way. A Reading brewery has made a special beer, which will be bottled and presented to the couple before the wedding.

HLC Leads Warden To Kill Self and Wife

Tupper Lake, N. Y., Oct. 19 (INS). A New York State forest fire warden today fatally shot his wife—mother of seven children—and then took his own life because "people are not nice to me" and the cost of living was disturbing him.

Children's Book Fair Opens In Cleveland Park Tomorrow

The Children's Book Fair is back again—part of a Washington "experiment in democracy" that is three years old but ripe for success.

It opens tomorrow and will run through Friday at the Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw.

The fair itself which will be attended by at least 2000 children and perhaps that many adults, is primarily "to increase familiarity with the best children's books and stimulate reading," according to its sponsor, the Cleveland Park Community Committee.

But behind the fair lies the determination of several hundred Cleveland Park residents to get a first-class public library, at a site on Connecticut ave. between Macomb and Newark sts. nw.

They're in sight of their goal—which will be reached when Congress votes a construction appropriation.

They've come a long way. Lesser attempts by citizens in the area at getting a library date back more than a quarter of a century. In 1944, however, the present site went on the market. The Connecticut Avenue Citizens' Association got Congress to appropriate $30,000 toward the purchase, if the citizens raised the rest. Joined by members of the Cleveland Park-Cathedral Heights and the Kalorama Citizens' Associations, they raised the money.

When appraisers increased the price $14,459, the District Commissioners came through with the difference.

Today, the Cleveland Park Memorial Library, as it will be known, stands high on the Public Library's priority list. Request for the building appropriation was cut from the budget last year, but it's there again this year, and hopes are high.

The Cleveland Park Community Committee took in about $2000 from the sale of books when the fair was held last year. This money, plus the profits of every annual book fair that will be held until the library is completed, goes toward library furnishings beyond whatever can be provided by the expected appropriation.

More than a score of leading writers and illustrators of children's books will give talks and lead panel discussions at the fair. They will autograph their books for buyers. There will be a story hour each day, led by members of the Washington Story League.

Arrangements have been made to take groups of children from the area's schools in a steady flow for visits lasting about half hour.

Tomorrow's spekers and their subjects: 9 a. m., Glen Blough, author, on "Favorite Pets"; 9:50, Miss Delia Goetz, author, "Letters From South America"; 10, Blough on "Open the Door to Science"; 10:30 Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, author, "Deep Sea Diving"; 11:20, Miss Goetz, "Strange Animals I Have Known"; 1 p. m., Mrs. Catherine Cate Coblentz, author "Backyard Friends"; 1:20, Lucia Patton, illustrator and author, chalk talk; 2, Capt. Frederick Bell, author, "Tales of the Old Navy"; 2:20, Miss Barbara Nolen, editor of the magazine Story Parade, "Making a Book or Magazine."

At 4 p. m., Miss Lucie Meyer will tell Uncle Remus stories to children aged 4 to 8 years, and at 4:30, Miss Mary Ellen Dashiell will tell two stories for 8- to 12-year-olds.

Airmen to Spray For Cholera Flies

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 19 (AP).—The Egyptian Public Health Ministry today announced 658 new cases of cholera and 279 additional deaths, bringing the total deaths in the 26-day-old epidemic to 2128.

Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashi Pasha said one million anti-cholera vaccines had arrived from Bombay. A specially equipped spray plane of the U. S. Air Force, carrying enough DDT to make 100,000 gallons of spraying mixture, arrived here today from Frankfurt, Germany, to combat flies spreading cholera in Egypt.

1000 See Marshall Get Freedom Award

Secretary of State Lauded for Work In War and Peace at Annual Dinner

New York, Oct. 19 (AP).—Secretary of State George C. Marshall tonight received the 1947 Freedom Award at a dinner at which more than 100 guests heard the Secretary's work in war and peace praised by international leaders.

Bernard M. Baruch, who received the award last year, presented the bronze plaque, traced Marshall's service in two wars and through years of peace, and termed him "the first global strategist," who "left a permanent, written record of what to do (in war) and how to do it."

The award is presented annually by Freedom House, an organization of citizens dedicated to peace. In selecting Marshall for the award, Freedom House cited him especially for projecting a plan for European construction.

The inscription on the plaque said of Marshall: "At the helm in peace as in war, with courage, integrity, wisdom devoted to the democratic cause."

Baruch, in his presentation, also reviewed questions before the United Nations and asserted: "If it can function, peace will reign. If not, we shall go socially and politically from cosmos to chaos—to another dark age in the history of mankind."

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian ministrian for external affairs, declared the need for international understanding was never greater than at present.

President Truman, in a message read to the gathering, said of Marshall: "Great in war and great in peace, happily for his country, he continues as a bulwark of strength in national and international councils."

Others who voiced tribute here French Ambassador Henri Bonnet, Chief United States delegate of the U. N., Warren R. Austin, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Miss Frances Perkins and Dr. Harry D. Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College and of Freedom House.

Majority of Persons Polled Approve of Tipping Theory But Some Think Check Should Include All Service Costs

Krelow | Mrs. Saks | Mrs. Morgan | Cohen | Mrs. Swinney | Tignor

The majority who gave spot interviews to The Washington Post yesterday approved of the general theory of tipping.

Sam Krelow, 2500 41st st. nw., a real estate man, said he believed we should tip "the boys and girls who serve us, because they don't get enough money in salary."

Krelow said he believed 10 per cent was a good sum for a tip, and explained he "always" tips cab drivers and barbers.

Sam Krelow's daughter, Mrs. Val Saks, a private secretary, who lives with her parents, said while she was not against the theory of tipping, she was against the general practice.

"I believe the tip should be included in the total check," she said. "And if that is not done, I believe the person who serves me should receive a salary adequate enough so that tips are not necessary."

Mrs. C. A. Morgan, 807 St. Paul st., Baltimore, Md., a housewife, who was visiting in the city yesterday, said that she also believes in tipping, and always tips about 10 per cent.

Mrs. Morgan said that she tips cabdrivers and hairdressers alike. She added that she believes it is a nicer gesture to tip directly to the person who serves you than to have the amount of such a tip included in a general check.

George A. Cohen, 1954 Calvert st. nw., a War Department employe, said that he always tips for table service in restaurants, regardless of the type of restaurant, but usually eats in cafeterias, where there is no table service.

The War Department worker said he doesn't use cabs, but does tip barbers. He explained that he believes in tipping because there is a well-established precedent.

Mrs. Virginia Swinney, 2511 N. Pershing dr., Arlington, a cryptographic clerk for the War Department, is strongly against tipping. "I don't believe in tipping," she said, "because I feel that they probably are making more money than I am."

Mrs. Swinney said she tips only when she believes the person who is waiting on her is doing her a favor. When she does tip, she said, she tips on the 10-per-cent basis.

John M. Tignor of 1309 H st. ne., a postal employe, also believes in tipping. He said he tips "a little less than 10 per cent, although I know a lot of people say 10 per cent is the correct tip."

Tignor said that he very seldom rides cabs, and therefore has not formed any general habits on tipping drivers.

Since expenses now are so high, he believes it might be a good idea if the tip were included in the general check.

Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, Air Force chief of staff, cautioned against assuming that all problems of Arctic air warfare had been solved.

Alaska, he pointed out, was "a still unconquered immensity, calling for wisdom and strength and challenging the ingenuity of the Air Force engineers and scientists."

resses. Only slightly more than half the cab riders in the Washington area tip cab drivers regularly. Nearly three fourths of the people with yearly incomes of $5000 or more tip cab drivers, as compared with less than half of those with incomes under $3000. Younger people are more likely to forgo tipping the cab driver than people over 30.

Washingtonians were asked:

"Do you generally tip cab drivers?"

Replies of cab riders were as follows:

| | All Respondents | Annual Income Under $3000 | $3000-$4999 | $5000 and more |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Yes | 58% | 44% | 58% | 73% |
| No | 28 | 34 | 30 | 19 |
| Sometimes | 14 | 22 | 12 | 8 |

Hairdressers are tipped more often than barbers. Of the women who have their hair done, three-fourths regularly tip the hairdresser, while slightly over half the men tip their barbers regularly. And although more people with higher incomes tip their cab drivers, this does not hold for tipping hairdressers and barbers. Those with yearly incomes under $3000 are as likely to tip for this service as the people having incomes of $5000 or more a year.

Post pollers were asked:

"Do you generally tip barbers or hairdressers?"

| | All Respondents | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|---|
| Yes | 64% | 56% | 73% |
| No | 29 | 39 | 19 |

69 Saved at Sea Laud Heroes, Charge Plane Overcrowded

I was. My husband came on the next raft with our son in his arms. Gordon never batted an eyelash and he told me later that he 'came over on the nastiest life raft.'"

Ritchie, a native of New Brunswick, was second secretary of the Canadian Embassy from 1944 to 1946.

Also on the plane were Miss Johanna von Goechingk, who was in Washington with UNRRA for one year before being transferred to London in August, 1945, and Miss Mary Gandy of London, who was en route to visit her sister, Mrs. W. C. Schroeder, Clinton, Md.

SYMBOLIC of the "clean sweep" made by the Bibb in saving all of the plane's 62 passengers and seven crewmen was a broom lashed atop the mainmast as the snow-white cutter steamed up the harbor. City officials, news, movie and radio men met the ship at harbor entrance and 50 or more small craft escorted her to quarantine and thence to the pier.

Survivors on deck included 10 children—two of them babies in arms—who seemed more thrilled by the noisy harbor welcome than their elders.

One of the most outspoken of those who criticized conditions aboard the seaplane was Robert Laufer, 62, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., a fur dealer.

"They never," protested Laufer, "should have been allowed to pack us in like sardines."

(The 69 aboard was believed to be a record transatlantic passenger list.)

"Some of us slept in our seats," he reiterated, "but others actually had to sleep on the floor. Food? We were allowed a small glass of orange or tomato juice for breakfast. Water? Just enough to keep us alive. I asked a steward for something to eat and he told me he 'hadn't time for anything of that sort.'"

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators were among the first to board the ship as it docked and they interviewed members of the plane's crew. The fliers later told newsmen they were cautioned by investigators not to discuss the flight with reporters.

Edward E. Slattery of Washington, a member of the CAB, said a public hearing into the ditching was scheduled for October 30 at Hotel Lexington, New York City.

Chief of Coast Guard officials greeting the Bibb down harbor was Rear Admiral Merlin A. O'Neil, assistant Coast Guard commandant, who came here from Washington. He conferred with the Bibb's skipper, Capt. Paul B. Cronk of Newton, Mass., but had no other comment than that the entire crew of the Coast Guard ship deserved commendation.

SEAPLANE Pilot Charles Martin of Miami and the others of the Sky Queen's crew remained below decks for an hour after arrival of the Bibb. Newsmen were forbidden to go below decks. When he emerged, Martin said, only "I want to express sincerest thanks to the Coast Guard for the almost impossible job magnificently done. I can't talk about the ditching. Our lips have been sealed."

Stuart Robertson of New York City, president of American International Airways, which operated the Sky Queen, denied the craft was overcrowded or "violated any law."

He said the plane load was well below the legal maximum and that the airship was in first class shape. The fact, he asserted, that there were 10 children and 18 women aboard kept the total weight lower than would be normally expected for a total of 62 passengers.

The leader of the heroic cutter men who fought their way to the ditched plane in small boats, Lieut. (jg) Clarence S. Hall, 27, of Avon, Mass., executive officer, was assigned to duty forward as the Bibb arrived. Sought out by newsmen and the chairman of selectmen from his home town, he was directing the men in hoisting the anchor at quarantine, and he shied away from talk of a hometown celebration.

Jewish Veterans Elect Klein Leader

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 19 (AP).—Col. Julius Klein of Chicago, veteran of both World Wars, today was elected national commander of the Jewish War Veterans at the concluding session of the organization's annual convention here.

Klein, who succeeds Milton A. Richman of Hartford, Conn., defeated Jackson Holtz of Boston on the first ballot.

Assistant to Patterson

Klein, a public relations consultant and former newspaperman, saw 35 months of action in the South Pacific and in the Philippines during World War II. After V-J Day he served as special assistant to Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War.

The veterans also elected Oscar Brown of Philadelphia as Judge Advocate General, and seven national vice commanders—David Lasker, Boston; Sol Masch, New York City; Dr. Leon Brauenstein, Scranton, Pa.; Harry Adams, Miami Beach, Fla.; Morris Morganstern, Cleveland; Sam Weinstein, Denver, and Dave Vener, Beaumont, Texas.

Wallace Begins Tour Of Palestine

Jerusalem, Oct. 19 (U.P.).—Henry A. Wallace arrived in troubled Palestine today on a mission which he said was mainly "journalistic."

The New Republic editor and former Vice President said he hoped to visit the neighboring Arab states of Lebanon and Trans-Jordan, and wanted to meet the leaders of all sides while in the Holy Land.

Wallace was protected by a cordon of police at Lydda Airport.

Violence Feared

"He is known to be pro-Jewish, and we were afraid he might be knocked off," one policeman said.

Wallace denied reports that he would meet the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, who is chairman of the Arab Higher Committee.

He said he had not changed his stand on partition, and still favors it.

Wallace declared he welcomed the accord between the United States and Russia on partition. "It will help a lot toward peace," he stated.

Publisher With Him

Accompanying him were New Republic Publisher Michael Straight and Lewis Frank, an editorial assistant on the magazine.

Unconfirmed reports reaching Jerusalem tonight from the northern frontier said five Jewish policemen had been taken into custody by Syrian troops camped on the border near the Kfar Szold settlement.

It was understood that Syrian authorities charged the policemen had been found "inside Syrian territory."

Lynching Threatened In Georgia Rape Case

Perry, Ga., Oct. 19 (U.P.).—A Negro accused of raping a 9-year-old Negro girl was threatened with lynching by a band of Negro men, Sheriff C. C. Chapman reported today. The girl was found yesterday in a swamp, nude, bruised and dazed.

Chapman said James Davis, 30, of Jacksonville, Fla., was jailed and charged with raping her. Chapman said 10 to 15 Negro men came to the jail "and begged us to turn him over to them." The girl had been sent to take a message to Davis, who worked on a farm adjoining the one on which she lived.

'No Contracts' Rule Modified

Graphic Arts League, representing 22 print shops, that the ITU and the Baltimore local failed to bargain in good faith.

On September 26, the Baltimore printers' union offered to sign a contract for a technically open shop—while a closed shop is one of the basic tenets of the ITU. However, Charles Brannock, president of the Baltimore Typographical Union, said the contract offer saved the printers "considerable freedoom of action."

Brannock said there was nothing in the contract offer to force the printers to work with nonunion members if they did not wish to.

Yesterday, Randolph declined to give details of the cancelable contracts which he said have been signed.

Randolph termed the NLRB hearings in Baltimore "useless." He said, "It doesn't mean a thing. If they decide the printers were not bargaining in good faith—and we believe they were—they'll go back and bargain some more. We're always ready to bargain in good faith."

He declared:

"The Taft-Hartley law is disruptive of the whole collective bargaining field. It destroys completely the friendly, closed-shop contracting practice between employers and local unions of the ITU. Members of the ITU have never worked with nonunion men, and I predict they never will.

"Employers who seek their pound of flesh through the Taft-Hartley law will find it disappointing fare when consumed. Those who ignore the fact that the union with the best record of service to its members and the industry is now being most viciously assailed are blind to the facts of life."

Army's Train Finishes Run

Santa Maria, Calif., Oct. 19 (AP).—A sullen, dirty and exhausted group of 141 Army prisoners arrived at nearby Camp Cooke today by train after a transcontinental "hell run" from New York State.

The men were described by Col. Wade D. Killen of Salt Lake City, Utah, in command of the train on the last leg of the trip, as "habitual criminals, many of them inured to crime before they entered the Army."

Time after time the guard of 52 officers and men broke up attempted escapes. Some of the prisoners were shot and wounded, put back on the train and brought on here under medical attention.

Until the prisons reached the outskirts of Los Angeles they had traveled from Greenhaven, N. Y., in outmoded railroad equipment and the windows of the coaches were not barred. In California the Southern Pacific provided coaches with barred mesh windows, and the men were released from handcuffs or legirons.

James D. Anders, 21, of Jamestown, N. Y., was the only prisoner who made good his escape. He is still being hunted in Kansas. One man made 24 escape attempts, another 18.

Colonel Killen said the trip from Los Angeles to Camp Cooke was without incident, and that the prisoners, many of whom will serve life sentences, were being processed at the disciplinary barracks.

but carries a big Kick

GO easy, sir, when you come up behind this Buick and the little medallion over its license plate tells you it's a Roadmaster.

For this biggest of all today's Buicks rides the roads with deceptive ease and serenity.

It moves its smooth and easy way in such well-mannered quiet you may think here's one you can safely challenge.

Take our advice—and don't try it.

For with all the bigness of its eighteen feet—with all its solid steadiness of 4400 pounds of curb weight—this model packs 144 Fireball horsepower under its broad bonnet.

And it's power on instant call, power with such quick, singing responsiveness that no special gearing's needed to supply ample passing speed in any situation.

You can't miss, of course, the levelness of the Roadmaster's going. Size and weight and all-coil springing join hands here to make every mile a mile of ease.

Behind its wheel you can't help marveling that a car so big can handle so lightly, holding true on curves, coming smoothly out of sudden swerves, answering wheel and brake obediently whatever the road's condition.

And just seeing this sweetheart pass is enough to settle your mind once and for all that Buick holds the key to coming things in automotive styling.

So it's small wonder that more and more people are picking Roadmaster by name as the car they've set their hearts on.

Small wonder, either, that they're settling matters now—and getting their orders in, certain that on delivery day they'll receive the smartest, liveliest, most wanted car of its time.

Why not place yours, too—with or without a car to trade?

Inquiry Opens Tomorrow on Big War Profits

By The Associated Press

A Senate probe into the possibility that "some privileged industries" piled up "excessive war profits" will open tomorrow.

The quotations come from Chairman Brewster (R., Me.) of the Senate War Investigating Committee, who announced yesterday that seven wartime Government officials would be asked about contract renegotiations.

The chairman said there had been numerous complaints "that legal exemptions in connection with renegotiating contracts of some privileged industries may have been responsible for the accumulation of excessive war profits."

He said the prboe was being made now "with a view to preventing a repetition of such practices in any possible future national emergency."

Brewster said the full committee would meet in closed session today at 10 a. m. to discuss what investigations will be continued and set for hearings.

Authority of the special investigating group is scheduled to expire January 31 and Brewster says he would make no attempt to extend the group which was first set up in 1942 with President Truman, then a Senator, as chairman.

Brewster said that witnesses at the open hearing Tuesday would include:

John Kenney, Undersecretary of the Navy; John R. Paull, chief of the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board; Frank C. Selinow, vice chairman of the Contracts Adjustment Board and chairman of the War Department Price Adjustment Board; Brig. Gen. J. K. Christmas, chief of the procurement for War Department; Sidney T. Thomas, former chief of tax amortization section of War Production Board; C. Roland Larrabee, chairman of the Price Adjustment Board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Raymond Eberly, chairman of the Treasury Department Price Adjustment Board.

New Babes Now Photographed By Two Hospitals in D. C. Area

Miss Loughran Makes Her Camera Debut

Two Washington area hospitals have installed equipment for taking photographs of newly-arrived babies.

The device, developed by a former FBI agent, Robert Clark, has been put in operation at Garfield Memorial Hospital, Washington, and Leland Memorial Hospital, Riverdale, Md.

Clark became interested in the idea when his son, Robert, jr., arrived, but development of a camera that could be operated by the hospital staff under the same rigid conditions of sanitation as other nursery equipment was delayed by the war.

With the help of Dr. Harold Edgerton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Clark built an automatic machine that can be installed in the maternity ward nursery, and operated by a nurse by means of a footlever.

The photograph serves as a record for the hospital, and also enables parents to have an early picture of the new baby.

Globe-Circling Cubs Land at Tokyo Field

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP).—Clifford V. Evans, 1416 N. Abington st., Arlington, Va., and George W. Truman, Los Angeles, landed their tiny Cub planes at Tokyo's Haneda Airfield this afternoon and said they intended to ask Russian permission for emergency landings in the Kuriles, if necessary, on the forthcoming longest hop of their leisurely, around-the-world journey.

The airmen, who came from Nagoya, planned to stay in Tokyo two days, then fly to Nemoro.

Disciples Open Member Drive

Dr. Howard Thomas Wood, of Memphis, Tenn., yesterday challenged church folk to become evangelistic.

The pastor of the Linden Avenue Christian Church in the southern city addressed workers at the launching of the area-wide Disciples of Christ visitation evangelism crusade. He spoke at National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle.

"We need to be evangelists for the sake of the world in which we live," Dr. Wood said. "Even scientists are saying that it must be a Christian world or no world." He said we also need to be evangelists for the sake of ourselves and for the sake of the church.

The local project, which will stress home visitation by volunteers, is a phase of the Nation-wide Disciples of Christ Crusade for a Christian World, of which the goal is 900,000 additional members. Preachers' meetings will be held each morning—today through Friday—at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park Road nw.

JUNE ARNOLD'S rise to stardom as "Ballerina of the Ice" has been a great experience for her—and for the thousands who have watched her spectacular performances. And, as a smoker, Miss Arnold had an interesting experience during the wartime cigarette shortage.

"I smoked so many different brands when cigarettes were hard to get," says Miss Arnold, "I had a chance to make comparisons. That's when I learned that Camels suit me best."

Thousands and thousands of smokers had the same experience during the wartime cigarette shortage, Miss Arnold. And, with smoker after smoker who tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience."

83 Units Plan Celebration Of Navy Day

Navy Day—October 27—will be marked in Washington by a series of celebrations, including services at the John Paul Jones Monument and "open house" at Navy installations in this area.

Eighty-three veterans', patriotic and civic organizations will line 17th st., from Constitution ave. to the John Paul Jones Monument next Monday in observance of the 21st annual public celebration of Navy Day.

Woodward Main Speaker

The Military Order of the World Wars announced that the principal speaker would be Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward. Col. Edwin S. Bettelheim, jr., will be master of ceremonies.

The United States Naval Air Station, Anacostia, will open its observance of Navy Week Friday. Capt. James H. McKay, commanding officer, announced that at 10 a. m. the gates will be thrown open to the public.

What he described as "one of the most lavish displays of planes and equipment" ever shown here will be exhibited. A selected group of Naval personnel will act as hosts, Capt. McKay said.

Pilots to Answer Questions

Planes of every type normally based at Anacostia will be available for inspection and berribboned pilots will be on hand to answer all questions. An exhibit of maps, models of clouds and several motion pictures also will be shown.

Other installations to be opened for inspection include the Naval Receiving Station, the Naval Powder Factory, the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, the Deep Sea Diving School, the Naval Intelligence School and the Naval Hospital at Bethesda.

The first of a series of educational meetings sponsored by the Patent Office Society for Patent Office personnel will be held at 8:10 p. m. tomorrow in the Department of Commerce auditorium.

Chamber Music Planned

Perhaps Washington's most unusual musical organization is that organized by Willis M. Gault to play chamber music for the love of it.

Comprising lawyers, Government workers and members of other occupations, they have one thing in common—a desire to play chamber music.

Gault, who lives at 1522 Isherwood st. ne., is a fiscal accounting clerk for the Treasury Department by day, and a violin maker of note.

His recently organized chamber music orchestra meets Thursdays at Thomson Public School, 12th and L sts. nw., at 8 p. m. for two-hour rehearsals.

At the moment the orchestra has about 20 members, but Conductor Gault and the members hope to double its size, and applicants are invited to tuck their instruments under their arms and come to a rehearsal. A rehearsal is also scheduled for 1:30 p. m. today at the YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw., at which applicants will be heard.

The orchestra, members of which pay no fees, is planning a free concert at 4:30 p. m., October 26, at the YWCA.

Though the group has tried its hand at some of the modern composers, members' tastes run to the classic old masters, Gault said.

Truman to Hear Program of VFW

The program of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be presented to President Truman at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow by Ray H. Brannaman, VFW commander in chief.

Brannaman is expected to outline VFW aims that include making veterans' housing a No. 1 legislative objective during the coming year, and request White House support of a program to provide adequate homes and rental units at prices former servicemen can afford to pay.

Proposals for national security, including adoption of universal military training, also will be urged on President Truman.

30 Service Planes Seek Missing Cargo Fliers

Gainesville, Ga., Oct. 19 (AP).—Thirty Navy and Army planes flew over northern South Carolina and northeast Georgia in bright sunshine today in a futile search for a DC-3 cargo plane with three Massachusetts men aboard.

Good Escapist Stuff

'The Unsuspected' At the Warner

By Richard L. Coe

KEEPING THE CHARACTERS straight in mystery stories usually proves as vast a tangle for us as solving the mystery itself.

"The Unsuspected," good escapist stuff at the Warner, gave us quite a workout on that score. Genuine detecto-readers will have little trouble recognizing Charlotte Armstrong's original in this slick tingler and conceivably scoff at one who can't immediately get the complexities of relationships clear.

The leading character is a snap, of course. He's one of those radio story-tellers who whispers each week into his mike something like "Mary Phillips has just seen her parents brutally murdered and feels she cannot live without them."

Word for word, that's what the guy says, one of the most bizarre remarks of the year when you come right down to it, but it's in line with everything else the man says, so there's no trouble in getting him taped. (To be sure, the role is played by Claude Rains and you know what fine, upstanding malevolence HE's always up to.)

But the others aren't so easy. Audrey Totter's always playing around with some man and it seems to be her house, but no, wait a bit, Joan Caulfield's coming back from the dead to take her room. And what's poor Hurd Hatfield doing, sulking at the bar all the time? Is Michael North really married to Joan and what's he up to? And Constance Bennett, who almost looks less like Constance Bennett than Eve Arden does? Hasn't she any love life at all? You mean she buys all those wonderful clothes on a lousy radio salary? There also is something to do with a handsomely stuffed trunk the fate of which will be some concern to you.

These things and considerably more come up during "The Unsuspected," which is a slick atmosphere chiller that certainly will keep you from thinking about meatless Tuesday and whatever else frets you. It's meant to be purely escapist stuff and as such it's pretty good.

"The Unsuspected" is Michael Curtiz' first production with his own unit. He's done handsomely by it in physical proportions, both human and inanimate.

LARRY PARKS, as himself, Scriptwriter Ring Lardner, jr., Bartley C. Crum, Producer Lewis Milestone, Director Edward Dmytryk, Adrian Scott (who produced "Crossfire," which Dmytryk directed), and Robert W. Kenny, president of the National Lawyers Guild, will speak tonight at an open meeting in the Press Club auditorium. They're here to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee. The guild's invitation to the public to attend this open meeting begins: "The Un-American Activities Committee, under the guise of investigation in connection with pending or contemplated legislation, has acted as a combined censor, prosecutor and propaganda agency . . . . It has created a condition of hysteria and intimidation in which freedom of speech is stifled and liberty of all Americans imperiled."

THE CAPITOL Theater folk, remembering the "Monsieur Verdoux" booking affair, wire: "Esther Williams will personally appear at Loew's Capitol Theater on October 23, just three days following the launching of the House Un-American Activities Committee hearing. It is no ironical coincidence that her new musical picture, 'This Time for Keeps,' which is neither bold nor controversial, also opens the same day at the Capitol. For months Representative Thomas and others have not subpenaed Miss Williams and it is doubtful if they ever have had any thought of doing so. Nevertheless, if Miss Williams is coming to Washington, there might as well be a harbinger of her arrival and she has no better harbinger than her new technicolor musical."

"ANTHONY ADVERSE," noting the success of the O'Haras of Tara and the Lesters of "Tobacco Road," is a comin' back—to the Warner, which is where it played when it was the Earle, back in 1936. Last time we wrote about the Warner bringing back a big one, it was an Al Jolson original which hasn't shown up yet, so we'll say no more!

TONIGHT sees the arrival of the Messrs. Shubert's Musical Repertoire Company at the National. "Rose Marie" rings up the curtain, with "The Merry Widow" set to open next Sunday matinee.

TOMORROW: IN the final editions, Richard L. Coe will review, if you can review a 22-year-old musical, "Rose Marie."

Man Burned Using 'Gas' to Clean Pants

Gordon D. Clatterbuck, 25, 1222 33d st. nw., was recuperating in Georgetown University Hospital yesterday from burns suffered at his home Saturday night while cleaning his clothes.

Police said Clatterbuck was cleaning a pair of trousers in gasoline in a washing machine. The fumes were ignited, they said, when they reached the flame of a gas-operated refrigerator.

Clatterbuck suffered third degree burns of both arms and both legs in the flash explosion and in efforts to put out the fire. His wife and two small children, in another room at the time, were unhurt.

Fire damage, mostly blistering of paint, was estimated at $50.

Another victim of burns yesterday was Raymond F. Watson, 21, 917 North Carolina ave. ne., a passerby, who attempted to quell a small blaze in ignition wires of a parked automobile at Pennsylvania ave. and Jackson pl. nw.

Watson was treated at Emergency Hospital for second degree burns of the right fingers and possible fracture of the hand. The car was owned by Philip J. Kogok, 25, 1328 Maryland ave. ne.

Waynesboro, Va., Oct. 19 (AP).—Charles Elmer Harris, 38-year-old Waynesboro bricklayer, was dead today because he decided to take a shortcut home.

Harris' body was found lying beside the C. & C. Railroad tracks late last night where he apparently had been hit by an eastbound train.

Dr. F. P. Floyd, county coroner, attributed his death to a fractured skull and a possible broken neck. Police said Harris evidently was taking a shortcut home.

Flames Cause $750,000 Damage At Salem Mill

Salem, Va., Oct. 19 (AP).—An early morning fire swept through the Moore Milling Co. here today, destroying between $750,000 and $800,000 worth of flour, corn and feed and machinery.

President Robert A. Moore said the loss was only partially covered by insurance.

The blaze broke out about 3 a. m. and it took the combined efforts of fire companies from Salem, Roanoke, Williamson Road and the Veterans Administration to battle the flames.

Only charred walls remained standing tonight as firemen continued to play water on the ruins.

The mill nightwatchman, Tom Terry, said the flames broke out on the fourth floor and by the time Salem Fire Chief L. A. Ballard arrived the entire top of the mill was in flames.

Moore said thousands of pounds of flour, corn, ingredients for mixed feeds and finished flour and feeds were ruined by flames or water. In addition, much new machinery in the mill, including purifiers and separators, were destroyed, he said.

Restricted Documents Give Nazi War Data

By Drew Pearson

Washington.—One of the most important treasures of war information in existence are the Nazi files seized by the United States Army after it entered Germany. The Nazis were methodical keepers of records, and almost everything they did, ranging from conferences with Hitler to actions by deputy fuehrers, was faithfully recorded and filed away.

Lovett

In the opinion of Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall, these papers, which throw significant light on how we can avoid war in the future, should be made available to the American people. American soldiers gave their blood to capture them, and Royall has tried to persuade the State Department to open the files to the public.

However, Bob Lovett, Acting Secretary of State, feels otherwise. And following his usual hush-hush policy, these revealing papers have been kept secret.

This column has been able to obtain one sensational Nazi document giving the minutes of the meeting at which Hitler's advisers plotted the master-plan for the extermination of European Jews. The meeting was held on January 20, 1942. And while history has now shown what happened since, the public does not know the names of the men who planned this mass extermination and the detailed way in which they worked it out.

Furthermore, despite the long-drawn-out war crimes trials at Nuremburg, these men have not yet been indicted.

Minutes of this Berlin conference record in cold type the plan to put Jews in work camps and literally work them to death, or as the Nazi record puts it "fall out through natural diminution."

"The remnant that finally is able to survive all this," states the conference memo, "must be given treatment accordingly," since they might become "the germ cell of a new Jewish movement, should they be allowed to go free."

Pertinent parts of the minutes of this conference to decide the fate of European Jewry follow:

"I. The following persons took part in the conference on the final solution of the Jewish problem held on January 20, 1942, in Berlin, am Grossen Wannsee No. 56/58:

"Gauleiter Dr. Meyer and Reichsamtsleiter Dr. Leibrandt, Reich Ministry for the Occupied Eastern Territories; State Secretary Dr. Stuckart, Reich Ministry of the Interior; State Secretary Naumann, Commissioner for the Four-Year Plan; State Secretary Dr. Freisler, Reich Ministry of Justice; State Secretary Dr. Buehler, Office of the Governor General; Under State Secretary Luther, Foreign Office; SS-Oberfuehrer Klopfer, Party Chancellery; Ministerialdirekter Kritzinger, Reich Chancellery; SS-Gruppenfuehrer Hofmann, Race and Settlement Main Office.

"II. At the beginning of the meeting the Chief of the Security Police and the SD, SS-Obergruppenfuehrer Heydrich, reported his appointment by the Reichsmarschall to serve as Commissioner for the preparation of the final solution of the European Jewish problem, and he pointed out then that the officials had been invited to this conference in order to clear up the fundamental problems.

"The primary responsibility for the administrative handling of the final solution of the Jewish problem will rest centrally with the Reichsfuehrer-SS and the Chief of the German Police (Chief of the Security Police and the SD)—regardless of geographic boundaries.

'Final Solution' of Jews

"In view of the dangers of an emigration during the war and in view of the possibilities in the East, the Reichsfuehrer-SS and the Chief of the German Police had forbidden the emigrating of the Jews.

"III. The emigration program has now been replaced by the evacuation of the Jews to the East as a further solution possibility, in accordance with previous authorization by the Fuehrer.

"These actions are of course to be regarded only as a temporary substitute: nonetheless here already the practical experience has been acquired which in view of the coming final solution of the Jewish problem is of great importance.

"In the course of this final solution of the European Jewish problem approximately 11 million Jews are involved. They are distributed among the individual countries as follows: (then follows a list of all European countries and their Jewish population, even including England, Ireland, Switzerland and Scandinavian countries not occupied by Hitler.

"In the Jewish population figures given for the various foreign countries, however, only those of Jewish faith are included, as the stipulations for defining Jews along racial lines still are in part lacking there. The treatment of the problem as regards the general attitude and viewpoint will meet with certain difficulties in the various countries, especially in Hungary and Romania. It is still possible today in Romania, for example, for the Jew to acquire for money the right documents to give him the official proof of a foreign nationality.

For Use as Labor

"Under proper direction the Jews should now, in the course of the final solution, be brought to the East in a suitable way for use as labor. In big labor gangs, with separation of the sexes, the Jews capable of work are brought to these areas and employed in road building, in which task undoubtedly a great part will fall out through natural diminution.

"The remnant that finally is able to survive all this—since this is undoubtedly the part with the strongest resistance—must be given treatment accordingly. Since these people, representing a natural selection, are to be regarded as the germ cell of a new Jewish problem in the Government General it is primarily the responsibility of the Chief of the Security Police and the SD and his work was supported by the agencies of the Government General. He had only one request, that the Jewish problem in this territory be solved as quickly as possible.

"In conclusion the various kinds of solutions were discussed, and here both Gauleiter Dr. Meyer and also State Secretary Dr. Buehler advocated that certain preparatory tasks in the course of the final solution be performed immediately in the territories concerned; in this, however, any disturbing of the population must be avoided.

"With the request of the Chief of the Security Police and the SD to those participating in the conference to afford him their support in the carrying out of the tasks in connection with the solution, the conference was concluded."

Redskins Crumble in Fourth Period, Lose 27-10

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 19.—The sports business economists who told Mr. Robert Rodenberg he would lose from $60,000 to $100,000 this year in his Baltimore football venture ought to be unfrocked. With a bit more good fortune before the season ends, his Baltimore Colts of the All America Football Conference will have Rodenberg and his partners out of the barrel.

POVICH

In a brand-new football town, with a team that has not won since its opening game, Baltimore crowds have been averaging 35,000. And pro football fervor here is surpassing even that of the Redskins in their early years in Washington.

When the Colts returned from Buffalo after their losing game of last week, Line Coach Tarzan Taylor in an effort to sample public opinion of the team in Baltimore, picked his taxi driver for the experiment. Without introducing himself, he ventured, "Those Colts sure are a bad ball club." The cab braked to a stop, the driver hopped out, opened the rear door and said: "Get out. I'm carrying nobody who runs down our football team."

THEY HAD 36,852 in the Baltimore Stadium today to watch the Colts play the Los Angeles Dons, an honest count in spite of insinuations by the National Football League people that the AAC is padding attendance figures. Thus far it's a repetition of the Redskin success story in Washington. With Baltimore fans, the Colts may get licked, but they do no wrong.

The fine promotional hand of Jack Espey, former general manager of the Redskins, is easily visible in the Colts' success. He's dramatizing the whole business with the same sort of fanfare he whipped up for the Redskins. Preceding the introduction of the Colts today, for instance, Espey whipped up a bugler astride a white horse that galloped under the goal posts to maintain the Colt motif.

At the bugle call, the Colts romped onto the field. The bugle call was dubbed in with loudspeaker efforts for three logical reasons: (1) the bugler really couldn't bugle; (2) if he could, he couldn't bugle loud enough, and (3) they were taking no chances on his horse being bugle shy.

RODENBERG AND HIS partners put $470,000 into the club in its first year. That covered the cost of the franchise and the payroll of players, coaches, officials and supernumeraries, plus the promotional expenses. Right now, they expect to break even, with a break in the weather, which is essential in view of Baltimore's uncovered stands.

Only 5500 season tickets were sold by the start of the season, meaning that 33,000 of today's fans were won over to the Colts in the last six weeks—they'll sell 15,000 season tickets in 1948, they think.

They lured at least 5000 fans from Washington today, what with the Redskins out of town. But the Redskins are already beginning to feel the competition of Baltimore. Not quite in the matter of Washington fans at the Colt games, but the Redskins are losing the attendance of Baltimore fans, who formerly had no pro football in their own back yard.

RODENBERG HASN'T PUT the squeeze on Baltimore fans. You can still see a Colt game for a buck and a half, or you can buy a ticket for $2.75, or a season ticket for $3 per game. Those who insist on box seats can pay $5, of course. The Redskins have worked up their home game prices to a minimum of $3.60 on a season ticket basis.

The Colts drew 27,000 for their opening game with Brooklyn, in bad weather. They hit the jackpot with a 51,000 crowd, 49,000 paid, for the visit of the New York Yankees with Spec Sanders and Buddy Young. The San Francisco game brought out 29,000 fans.

They'll do at least 35,000 for the Buffalo game that's coming up. The disputed touchdown that cost the Colts a 20-15 defeat has left Baltimore fans aching for another crack at Buffalo. The club's sixth home game, with the Rockets, won't draw much, but before the season is over the Cleveland Browns are coming in, and that one could put 50,000 into the park. Now, if the Colts could win a couple of games . . .?

Steelers' 4th Period Rally Beats Eagles, 35-24

Pittsburgh, Oct. 19 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Steelers staged a roaring fourth period comeback here today to score 21 points and defeat the Philadelphia Eagles, 35-24, before 33,538 frenzied fans.

Johnny Clement ran 23 yards for the touchdown which put the Steelers ahead and Steve Lach bucked over for another from inches out to clinch the game with 15 seconds left.

Trapped in his own backfield on an attempted pass, Clement elected to run and by reversing his field found a clear path to the goal for the score which put Pittsburgh out front.

The Eagles, attempting a last ditch effort with nearly 10 minutes of the last period gone, saw their chances blasted when Tony Campagno intercepted a Tommy Thompson aerial and stepped out of bounds on the Steelers' 46.

Clement and Lach powered the Steelers the 64 yards they needed for the clincher.

The game was a thriller from the start. The Steelers went ahead briefly in 2:30 of the first period on a Clement-Campagno pass which covered 39 yards after Campagno caught the toss in the flat and was put into the clear by beautiful blocking by Guard Bill Moore.

A 43-yard touchdown pass from Thomas to End Pete Pihos gave the Eagles a tie two minutes later. They went ahead at 11:40 of the first period on Cliff Patton's 14-yard field goal.

Eagles Tie Score

With 10:15 of the secoond quarter gone, the Eagles made it 17-7 when Bosh Pritchard sneaked behind the Steeler defenders for a Thompson touchdown pass. The play covered 63 yards.

Pittsburgh bounced back, traveling 81 yards in five plays, Clement striking over right tackle from 5 yards out for the score.

An interference penalty gave the Eagles a first down on the Pittsburgh 18 in the waning seconds of the first half and Thompson made the chance good by tossing a touchdown pass to Pihos.

Steelers Outgain Eagles

After a scoreless third period, the Steelers moved back into the game in 1:46 of the final quarter when Clement passed 19 yards to Quarterback Bill Garnsas for the first of the three comeback scores. That drive, starting in the third period, covered 67 yards.

Steve Van Buren gained 133 yards in 21 attempts, but the yardage sticks showed a final edge for the Steelers with a 229 net against 175.

Race Horse Dies; Fever Suspect

Cranston, R. I., Oct. 19 (AP).—Alice K., a 3-year-old race horse which showed symptoms of swamp fever several weeks ago, died at a private stable here today. She had been stabled at Suffolk Downs, Narragansett Park and Lincoln Downs through the racing season.

According to Dr. Joseph S. Barber, chairman of the Rhode Island Board of Veterinarians, she was taken from the Narragansett stable area September 13, after having shown manifestations of swamp fever. The horse was owned by Mrs. E. P. Brown of Cranston.

Piedmont Head Reelected

Richmond, Va., Oct. 19 (AP).—Richard A. Carrington, jr., of Lynchburg, was re-elected for a third term as president of the Piedmont League by directors of the circuit at a meeting here today.

Dick Esleeck Spider Coach

Richmond, Va., Oct. 19 (AP).—Karl A. (Dick) Esleeck, head coach at Woodrow Wilson High School, Portsmouth, Va., tonight was named to succeed John Fenlon as football coach at the University of Richmond.

Esleeck's appointment was announced by Dr. George M. Modlin, University of Richmond president, who said the new coach probably would take over his new duties on January 1. Fenlon is scheduled to give up his post as grid mentor on that date to become physical education director of the Fredricksburg, Va., public school system.

Esleeck has been head coach at Woodrow Wilson High since 1944. Previously he held coaching positions at his alma mater, Virginia Tech, from 1925 until 1934; at Hampton High School, where his team won the State scholastic championship in 1936; and at John Marshall High in Richmond, where his team won 19 contests in a row in 1940 and 1941.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 19.—As a final filip to an artistic 38-10 pasting handed the Baltimore Colts by the Los Angeles Dons today, Squared Toed Ben Agajanian booted a 53-yard field goal that shattered the All-American Conference record today.

The marathon kick of Agajanian, who lost all the toes of his kicking foot in an elevator accident eight years ago, was achieved despite a cross wind. It tumbled onto the cross bar and plopped over.

It surpassed by two yards the previous conference record kick of Lou Grosza of Cleveland, but was a yard shy of the 54-yard goal booted by Glen Presnell in 1934 in the National League.

There was nothing decisive about the boot, however. Before 36,852 dismayed Baltimore fans, the Dons already had run up a 28-10 lead, wiping out a 10-0 advantage of the Colts in the opening quarter.

One Good—One Bad Half

The Colts gave their typical performance of playing one good half, and one bad one. They scored in the first four minutes when Bud Schwenk passed to Hillenbrand for 58 yards and a touchdown, and a bit later Augie Lio kicked a field goal from the 32.

And then the Dons took charge, with Chuckin' Charley O'Rourke confounding the Colts with his passing and direction of the Dons' running game that featured large John Kimbrough and Chuck Fennenbock. Two of the Dons' touchdowns stemmed from pass interceptions in the last half against the desperate Baltimores.

O'Rourke produced the Dons' first touchdown with a clever pass to Kimbrough for 23 yards, and their next two scores followed poor punts by John Galvin.

Fennenbock Scores

After one of Galvin's left footed punts traveled only 13 yards outside on the Baltimore 25, O'Rourke hit Nowaskey with a pass for 12 yards, and Fennenbock circled left end for the touchdown to give the Dons a 14-0 lead at the half.

They made it 21-10 in the third quarter on a 65-yard march, with O'Rourke passing to Gentry for 30. Kimbrough smashed over finally from the 1.

Frank Sinkwich, making his first appearance for the Colts, had one of his passes intercepted by Harry Hopp on the final play of the third quarter, and from the 14-yard line, the Dons scored. O'Rourke floated a pass to Bob Reinhard for the touchdown.

Following Agajanian's three pointer, the Dons poured it on the Colts with one more touchdown, in the last two minutes. Heap intercepted a Schwenk pass and galloped 60 yards with it.

Browns Have It Tough With Rockets, 31-28

Cleveland, Oct. 19 (AP).—The Champion Cleveland Browns, tagged with their first loss in 12 games last week, escaped today with a 31-to-28 victory over a surprisingly strong Chicago Rocket team in an All-America Football Conference tussle before 35,266.

The Browns held what appeared to be a comfortable 24-to-7 advantage early in the final quarter, but the Rockets loosed a 21-point barrage that almost downed the Clevelanders. A 21-yard field goal booted by Lou Groza early in the opening quarter turned out to be the deciding factor.

Ray Ramsey, former Bradley Tech speedster, and Sam Vacanti, the Rockets' 200-pound T quarterback, highlihted the final period drive that almost brought the Rockets their first win in eight league starts.

Ramsey notched all three fourth-period touchdowns, snagging a pair of passes from Vacanti and streaking 11 yards for the other.

Groza's field goal had put the Browns ahead, 3 to 0, in the opening period, but after an exchange of punts the Rockets moved 64 yards for a score, with Vacanti climaxing the spurt with a 37-yard pitch to Elroy Hirsch on the first play of the second period.

In the closing minutes of the first half, Otto Graham flipped one to Bill Boedeker for a 69-yard gain to the Chicago 22, from where piledriving Marion Motley took it over for his seventh touchdown of the season. The half ended with the Browns leading, 10 to 7.

Speedie Just That

In the third period, Mac Speedie hit pay dirt on a thrilling exhibition of faking, after taking a pass from Graham. The Clevelend end snagged the ball on the Chicago 25, went down on his knees, but scrambled up, faked a lateral, then broke away from three Chicago defenders.

Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones and Motley reeled off long gains, and Jones went over from the two to boost the Browns' lead to 24-7.

Starting from their own 40, the Rockets scored when Ramsey took a handoff from Vacanti and raced around left end for the tally.

The Browns nullified that touchdown by moving 64 yards as Jones broke away for two long runs and finally plunged over from the three. Groza added his fourth extra point.

Then Chicago moved from its own 17 to the Cleveland seven. Ramsey took another heave from Vacanti to cover the final 7 yards.

A fumble by Vermal Allen was recovered by John Kuzman on the Cleveland 20. Vacanti then hit Ramsey for his third touchdown toss of the day with 20 seconds left.

69,631 See Rams Hand Cardinals First Defeat, 27-7

Los Angeles, Oct. 19 (AP).—The hustling and alert Los Angeles Rams handed the Chicago Cardinals their first defeat of the season, 27 to 7, today before a Memorial Coliseum crowd of 69,631, setting a new attendance record for a National Football League game.

The Rams, hitting their peak performance of the year, almost completely bottled up the vaunted running of Charley Trippi, and the passing of Paul Christman, and took advantage of the breaks to score two touchdowns and rolled relentlessly by ground and air for their other two scores.

Bob Waterfield's superb punting kept the Cardinals deep in their own terrain throughout a scoreless first quarter. Then Reserve Center John Martin recovered Boris Dimancheff's fumble on the Cardinal 31-yard line in the first three minutes of the second period.

Kenny Washington, former UCLA Negro great, took a lateral from Waterfield on the first Ram play, circled the Chicago left flank and ran the full 31 for the first tally.

Before the half ended, Waterfield steered his mates tn another touchdown on a 59-yard march in 10 plays, including four successful passes by the sharpshooting Ram quasterback.

Sub Fullback Dick Hoerner went tne final foot. Waterfield's second conversion made it 14-0 at intermission.

The Rams, refusing to let down, received the kickoff opening the second half and drove 93 yards in a series of 13 beautifully mixed maneuvers which culminated with Jack Banta racing around Chicago's right end for 8 yards and the third touchdown. Waterfield's placement boot left the stunned Cards with a 21-0 deficit.

Cards Get One

The Cardinals finally got in the ball game on the following kickoff, which Bill de Correvant ran back to the Card 21. After three line plays netted 14 yards, Christman unleashed four dazzling passes, three of them to End May Kutner for gains of 23, 11 and 18 yards. Christman tossed a 5-yarder to Dimanchef to make the 79-yard drive pay off and Pat Harder converted, making it 21-7.

The Rams broke the back of a Cardinal comeback attempt late in the third period when Christman, fading to pass, was hit terrifically hard by Ram End Frank Hubbel and Tackle Eb Schultz. The ball popped out of Christman's grasp and bounced into the arms of Ram Tackle Gil Bouley, who sprinted 32 yards for the fourth and final Los Angeles tally. Waterfield's placekick was blocked by Caleb Martin.

Villanova Stops Detroit

Philadelphia, Oct. 19 (AP).—Villanova College, outplayed statistically, struck with two lightning-like thrusts to edge out a bruising University of Detroit football team, 14 to 12, today before 15,572 at Shibe Park.

The crowd hardly was settled when Villanova had a 7 to 0 lead. Detroit, receiving the kickoff, failed to gain and punted to Bill Doherty who reversed the ball to Bob Polidor.

The swift Villanova back raced down the sidelines 68 yards to a touchdown. Polidor received perfect blocking.

Big John Siano, place-kicked the first of two important extra points.

Detroit struck back shortly after the start of the second quarter driving 56 yards for a touchdown. Harry Peterson, Cokeburg, Pa., quarterback, and Gene Malinowski, tossed key passes in the drive with Malinowski flipping 14 yards to John Cullen for the touchdown.

Little Len Rittof, minus sholder pads, came in to do his specialty—placekicking—but his attempted extra point conversion was low and Villanova led, 7 to 6.

In the same period, Villanova pounded 54 yards for its second touchdown. Doherty passed to Polidor for 23 years and a first down on the Detroit 18.

Tom Clavin picked up two yards and then Doherty apparently trapped on a pass play, ran for a touchdown. Siano again converted and Villanova led, 14 to 6.

Green Bay's 17-Point Flare-Up Breaks Tie

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19—Defeat was dumped on the Washington Redskins here today as a valiant three-quarter stand against the favored Green Bay Packers was nullified by quaint circumstances which gave the hosts 17 points and a 27-10 victory in the final period.

While a paying crowd of 23,570 at State Fair Grounds sat in amazement that the Skins could boast a 10-10 tie going into the final quarter, disaster struck the District pro gridmen. It dropped them out of a first-place deadlock with Philadelphia for the Eastern Division lead into a second-place tie with the same team.

| 168 | Total yards all kick returned | 134 |
| 2 | Opponents' fumbles recovered | 3 |

On the second play of the closing stanza little Tony Canadeo, the Packers' prematurely gray scatback, threw his first and only pass of the game. It went to ambling Nolan Luhn for 26 yards and the touchdown that settled matters.

Baugh Outpassed

It didn't matter so much that Ted Fritsch, Green Bay's fullback, kicked the longest field goal in the National Football League for 13 years—49 yards—or that Bob Forte snatched a pass out of Vince Pacewic's arms with three minutes to go and romped 68 yards.

For the first time this year, Slingin' Sammy Baugh was beat out of passing honors. Still it wasn't any lapse on his part that lost the 'Skins' second game in four starts.

Baugh made good on 19 out of 39 passes for a .480 average, while the top passer on the field (excluding Canadeo with his 1.000 average) was Indian Jack Jacobs, a former understudy of Slingin' Sam. Jack heaved only 23 passes, but 12 of them were good, giving him a .522 record with 156 yards gained against Baugh's 242.

They weren't responsible for Washington's loss, but the officials were responsible for slowing the game considerably. In all, they called 19 penalties, 10 against the home club.

Skins Even Matters

They held up action for some time while everbody argued about a first down for the Redskins in the third quarter and in the fourth one of the men in striped shirts called "roughing the kicker" on Fred Boensch, then promptly forgot about it.

Trailing by 10 points after the first period, the Skins came slowly but surely back, with a touchdown in the second quarter on a 6-yard pass, Baugh to Johnny Lookabaugh and an 18-yard field goal by Dick Poillon in the third. That left it 10-10, and for a time the officials held sway.

They threw six penalties into the Packers' march from their 26 to the Redskins' 26, and then came One-Pass Canadeo and a 17-10 edge.

Interception Turning Point

The Redskins still weren't licked. Baugh passed 'em 54-yards downfield to the 11, and there came the crusher. Poillon's first try for a field goal was wide but he got another chance on a penalty. His second from the 23 was also wide.

After Fritsch's immense field goal, bettering the mark set by Detroit's Glenn Presnell in beating the Packers, 3-0, in 1934, Washington was still coming, with Baugh in the driver's seat.

Right down to the Packers 25 he nursed his mates, with Nussbaumer, Saenz and Pacewic catching. When Forte made his closing interception, Pacewic, for whom the pass was intended, gave chase for all 68 yards but just couldn't catch up.

Michigan, Notre Dame, Texas Are Still Nation's Best

Eight Teams Drop From Unbeaten Class

New York, Oct. 19 (AP).—Michigan, Notre Dame and Texas rated one, two, three—you can take your pick as to the order—among the college gridiron powers today after a weekend which saw eight major teams knocked out of the ranks of the unbeaten and untied.

As Michigan and Notre Dame do not meet during the campaign, it appears that their relative strength may be determined largely from two big games—the Michigan-Illinois clash at Champaign, Ill., on November 1, and the Notre Dame-Army classic at South Bend, Ind., on November 8.

Michigan, registering its fifth easy win against formidable opposition, mowed down Northwestern 49 to 21. The smooth-operating Wolverine machine has piled up 222 points while giving up only 34.

Notre Dame, playing pretty much under wraps, was sparked by 158-pound Halfback Coy McGee of Longview, Tex., as the Irish set down the mediocre Nebraska Huskers 34 to 0.

Racking up their third victory of the season, Notre Dame displayed a ground attack for the first time. The Irish picked up 384 yards on the ground and 145 yards in the air.

Of the five teams still to face Michigan, only Illinois shapes up as a threat to Coach H. O. (Fritz) Crisler's clubs. The Illini, a scoreless tie with Army the only blemish on their record, routed Minnesota, 40 to 13, yesterday.

It was Perry Moss day at Champaign. Moss, the star Illini quarterback, completed seven passes in as many attempts, two of them good for touchdowns. The victory left Illinois and Michigan tied for the top rung in the Big Nine.

Coach Frank Leahy at Notre Dame apparently is bringing along his charges gradually, building up for the Army battle. Even if the Irish get by the Cadets, they will have a tough one remaining in Southern California on December 6.

Texas took a step in the direction of the Southwest Conference title and high national honors by overpowering Arkansas, defending co-champ, 21 to 6. A drenching rain made passing next to impossible, so the Longhorns turned on a mighty ground offensive to score their fourth consecutive triumph.

In addition to Michigan, Notre Dame and Texas, major teams still sporting perfect records include Penn, Penn State, Wake Forest, Virginia, West Virginia, Georgia Tech, Baylor, Southern Methodist, California and Utah.

Dropped from the unbeaten and untied class over the weekend were Minnesota, Yale, Marquette, Vanderbilt, William and Mary, Texas A. and M., Boston College and Muhlenberg.

Six teams are unbeaten but tied. They are Army, Illinois, Southern California, Duke, Indiana and Kansas.

The three top teams in the East, Army, Penn and Penn State, had easy contests. Virginia Tech never got past the Army 45 as the Cadets walloped the Gobblers, 40 to 0.

Penn State blanked Syracuse by the same count—40 to 0—and Syracuse broke into Nittany Lion territory but once in the entire game.

Penn run up a 26-0 margin early in the second quarter, then checked a Columbia rally in the third period as the Quakers romped over the Lions, 34 to 14.

Yale, regarded as one of the East's upper bracket clubs, saw its dream of a perfect season shattered by Wisconsin, 9 to 0. The underdog Badgers accumulated their points on a second-quarter field goal by Quarterback Lisle Blackbourn and a 32-yard touchdown pass from Earl (Jug) Girard to Jim Embach late in the fourth period.

In the South, Georgia Tech was scored upon for the first time but the Engineers swept by Auburn, 27 to 7. Pitching Charlie Conerly passed Mississippi to a 27-14 conquest of Tulane.

A long pass ruled complete due to interference helped Kentucky hit paydirt in the first quarter and defeat previously unbeaten, untied Vanderbilt 14 to 0 before a stunned crowd at Nashville.

Less than two hours after his eligibility was upheld by the Southern Conference, Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice of North Carolina passed for one touchdown and set up another as North Carolina squeezed by William and Mary, 13 to 7.

Illini Only Threat On Wolverine Slate

It was a big weekend for upsets in the Southwest. Texas A. and M. was the victim of a 26-0 spanking by Texas Christian. Southern Methodist, paced by the amazing Doak Walker, surprised by beating Rice, 12 to 0. Baylor continued to amaze with a 32-6 win over Texas Tech.

The defending co-champs of the Big Six, Kansas and Oklahoma, fought to a 13-13 deadlock. The game ended dramatically with Kansas Halfback Ray Evans intercepting a Sooner pass in the end zone.

On the West Coast, California and Southern California turned up for their rucial meeting next Saturday with one-sided victories. Southern California rolled over Oregon State, 48 to 6, with the Trojan line smearing everything the Beavers had to offer.

California, surprise team of the year, clubbed Washington State 21 to 6 for the Bears' fifth consecutive win.

Oh, Deer! What Can The Matter Be?

Billings, Mont., Oct. 9 (AP).—An hour before his gridders Central Catholic High School were supposed to play Billings yesterday, Coach Kenneth Brown of Roberts High telephoned: "I can't find my team."

"I guess they all just went deer hunting and forgot about the game," Brown explained.

Sid Luckman Passes for Three Scores

Chicago, Oct. 19 (AP).—Sharpshooting Sid Luckman pitched three touchdown passes to pace the Chicago Bears to a 33-24 National Football League decision over the Detroit Lions before 36,105 at Wrigley Field today.

Luckman, completing 18 of 26 tosses for 340 yards, stole the show from Detroit's Bill Dudley, who galloped 84 yards on a punt return for the game's first touchdown, and thereafter was throttled until he grabbed a 7-yard touchdown pass in the closing seconds.

Luckman also set up the Bears' first touchdown with a series of five passes which enabled Frank Minini to batter across from the 2 and tie the score at 7-7.

The Bears, annexing their second league win in four starts, sewed up the game with three touchdowns in the second period for a 27-10 halftime advantage.

The Bears went ahead for keeps when Fred Hartman, 235-pound tackle, intercepted Clyde LeForce's pass and lumbered 16 yards for a touchdown. Two more Bear scores came in the second period when Luckman heaved a 28-yard payoff toss to Ken Kavanaugh and a 29-yard scoring pass to Bob Fenimore.

After a scoreless third period, Luckman fired a 23-yard touchdown pass to Jim Keane and Detroit finally scored again on a 23-yard toss from Le Force to Johnny Greene, who made a leaping catch in the end zone.

With time running out, Dudley speared a 7-yard pass from Roy Zimmerman for the final score.

Ray McLean converted after three of the Bears' five touchdowns, while Zimmerman added points after the three Detroit scores and also place-kicked a 20-yard field goal in the second period.

In the three ball-carrying attempts from scrimmage Dudley gained 21 yards. The Lion star was forced to leave the game in the second period because of injury, but returned later.

It was the fourth setback for the Lions in five loop starts.

Selima Heads 3-Stake Week For Laurel

LAUREL, MD., OCT. 19.—Another triple stake week opens tomorrow at Laurel with the climax Saturday when the twenty-second running of the Selima Stakes tops the program.

One of the richest races for juvenile fillies, the Selima laurels are coveted by owners and breeders alike and the fact that 151 fillies are eligible for the mile and a sixteenth event, attests to its popularity.

With $25,000 added, the Selima will provide a winner's share of $40,000, certainly a prize of importance for any young horse.

SHARING HONORS with the Selima on the week's card of thoroughbred competition, will be the twentieth running of the Spalding Lowe Jenkins for 2-year-olds, which is down for Wednesday and the seventeenth Governor Ogle Steeplechase, set for Thursday.

The Jenkins, which honors the memory of a former president of the Maryland State Fair, Inc., is at a mile and a sixteenth and is worth $10,000, while the Ogle, also valued at $10,000 is run over the infield course of about 2 miles.

Chief interest, of course, will center on the Selima Stakes, to which Calumet Farm's Bewitch is eligible. This daughter of Bull Lea and Potheen ran up quite a winning streak in the Chicago area only to have it broken by a disqualification after winning the Matron at Belmont for her first defeat.

THEN SHE FINISHED third to her stablemate Citation in the Belmont Futurity.

Checking over the list of possibilities for the rich fixture, Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan lists nearly a score of fillies.

These include Lenea, Sweet Biscuit, Challalita, Inheritance, Slumber Song, Miss Mommy, Snifter, Fussbutton, Magic Mirror, Cunning Miss, Great Weapon, Damiana, Monogamy, Spring Song, Grey Flight, Mackinaw, Dusty Legs and Vaudeville.

Bill Bennings

At Laurel.

DEAR FOLKS:

The pupil almost beat the master in last Friday's Butler Steeplechase. Jack Skinner, who saddled Mrs. S. C. Clark's Trough Hill to beat R. W. Grant's Sun Bath by a head, was meeting Emmett Roberts, who not only trained Sun Bath but rode him as well. The association of Skinner and Roberts goes back a long way, with Roberts having ridden many stakes victories for Skinner. A couple of years ago Roberts retired as a rider to take up training, and with Skinner's best wishes, Emmett has succeeded as a conditioner but on several occasions has forgotten his retirement from the riding game. He put up a great exhibition on Sun Bath and was beaten by a very narrow margin. State Steward Joseph F. Flanagan said, after the disqualification of Dr. Almac in the seventh race last Friday, that he was convinced the Happy Argo gelding shied from something besides Chuck Wahler's whip. Flanagan is of the opinion that the 2-year-old may have shied away from the starter's stand, or the lights on the tote board, in addition to ducking away from the whip. See you on the rail. BILL.

Governali Tosses Both Touchdowns

New York, Oct. 19 (AP).—Paul Governali passed through a dense fog and over a revamped New York team today for the two touchdowns that gave the Boston Yanks their very first National Football League victory over the Giants, 14 to 0.

| 2 | Opponents' fumbles recovered | 0 |
| 107 | Yards lost by penalties | 75 |

In the first period he tossed to Don Currivan, former Boston College end, who gobbled up the ball on the Giant 49 and hurried all the way to scoring territory. The play covered 78 yards over all.

Yanks Move Up

The second marker was the result of a 7-yard flip from Governali to Frank Seno, who traveled 4 yards after nabbing the ball in the second period.

The defeat dropped the Giants, who opened their home season and lured 37,1444 fans despite their winless record, into the cellar and moved the Yanks into third place in the Eastern Division.

The contest opened with the Yanks losing 13 yards in two attempted running plays. After Governali's two scoring passes, the first coming on the second play after Ken Strong failed in a field goal attempt, the Giant's weren't in the ball game.

Niles Losers' Standout

The Boston team tried 14 passes and completed five of them for 103 yards. Of this total, Governali tossed 13 times, registered all five of the completions and also was credited with all the yardage gained.

Four different flingers tried their luck for the Giants and they completed 13, mostly short ones, out of 27 tries for 115 yards.

However, the New York club's best play seemed to be Jerry Niles' running when the former Iowan dropped back to pass and couldn't get the ball away. One time he trotted 24 yards after finding all his receivers covered.

Stonewall Underdog Again in Fight Tonight

Stonewall Jackson, the fighting Phelps schoolboy, meets Pat Demers, a 21-year-old Boston lad, in the feature bout at Turner's Arena tonight.

Jackson goes into the match a 7-5 underdog. He's played that role in his last three starts and he won all three of them. His triumphs over Johnny Nohick of Philadelphia, Jimmy Collins and Joe DiMartino were all wagering upsets.

Demers has fought in all parts of the East Coast and has met such names as Danny Bartfield, Cabey Lewis and Julie Kogan. In the course of 70 bouts he has also traded punches with Charlie Fusari, Tony Pellone and Freddie Russo.

A four-year veteran of the ring, Demers is expected to give Jackson his first real test. The local lad meets his first headline opponent in the clever Bostonian.

Puggy King, unbeaten local amateur who recently flattened Red Gaddis, will oppose Jimmy Cooper in the six-round semi-windup. King's sensational finish against Gaddis gives him the edge in this one.

In a five-rounder Kid Alexander, Frank Akins' protege, will take on Flat Top Cummings. A four-rounder between Sam Jefferson and Billy Snead will open the show at 8:45 p. m.

Oh Boy! Red's Coming Back to Town

Skins Wilt, Lose, 27 to 10 To Green Bay

opening the Redskins appeared to be rolling. Saenz, after running the kickoff back 29 yards, was the spark in a brief drive from the Redskin 33 down to midfield, but there Baugh had to kick and the ball went into the end zone.

From his own 20, then Smith started the hosts goalward jaunt that was ruled good for only 37 yards around right end. Twice along the right sideline he almost stepped out of bounds and there was much discussion as to whether Todd had actually pushed him out on the Redskin 41.

But the touchdown Smith wasn't allowed was practically offset by Jacobs. Indian Jack hurled exactly four times and the Packers had first downs on a 10-yard pass to Goodnight, a 12-yard pass to Luhn and a 14-yard pass again to Goodnight. The ball was on the Redskin 7 when Jacobs tried a dash around end, fumbled and was saved when the ball bounced out.

Fritsch Tallies

From the 6 Fritsch picked up 4 yards through center and on the next play plunged the last 2 yards, carrying Harris with him. Cuff made it 7-0 in favor of Green Bay with 7 minutes of the first period remaining.

On the kickoff, Washington had the ball only three plays. Rookie End Paul McKee disposed of it this time, fumbling after taking Baugh's pass 21 yards to the Packer 45. Forte was there to recover and Green Bay's second scoring march started.

A field goal by Cuff, making it 10-0, was on the end of a 51-yard advance that Jacobs paced until it stalled on the 4. Fritsch had been held to a plus 1 yard in two plunges before Cuff, from his 14, booted a perfect 3-pointer.

From then until Todd stepped in the path of Jacob's fourth-down pass late in the second period neither team made much of a threat.

Lookabaugh Scores

The Packers had a vague chance when Forte intercepted Baugh's pass at midfield, but that fizzled 24 yards away for a goal. Washington's return march carried gallantly 53 yards before Nussbaumer fumbled on a tackle slant and Forte was again on top of it.

Green Bay was moving cockily from its own 17, in a series of penalty-powered plays and Jacobs hurled first downs when Washington finally got a break it could use. Todd, taking Jacobs' aerial on his 40, was slowed immediately by a shirt tackle.

But the little Texan went on, finally going down on the 10 as Schlinkman drove in from the side. Poillon and Rosato each picked up two yards off left tackle before Baugh, with one of his hardest passes, drilled Lookabaugh in the stomach on the goal line. Long John had only to fall past Brock for the touchdown and Poillon kicked the point.

Southeast Upsets Unbeaten Riverside in Metro League, 6-0

Mt. Rainier Loses, 26-0, To Car Credit

Southeast A. C. registered the upset of the Metropolitan Football League season yesterday when it put over a 6-0 victory against the previously unbeaten, untied and unscored-on Riverside Rollers at Hearst Playground.

The victory was Southeast's fifth in a row and strengthened its 160-pound Eastern Division lead, while dropping Riverside to runner-up role in the Western Division race.

Sonny Settle plunged over from the 3-yard line for the only score of the game in the first quarter.

Southwest Merchants forged into the 160-pound Western Division winning their fourth victory against one tie. They beat the Maryland Mohawks at Fletcher Field, 13-6.

The Hawks led at half-time, 6-0, but a 35-yard payoff pass, John Mason to Joe Perron, in the third quarter, coupled with a conversion by Jerron, and a 42-yard pitch, Mason to Lyle Sherman, in the last stanza, settled the game.

In other 160-pound games, Arrow Linen completed a 70-yard, third period touchdown pass, Jim Horan to H. Bernhard, to whip the hard fighting Brookland-Woodridge Merchants, 7-0, while the Anacostia Lions bested Shamrocks, 13-0, on Fairlawn No. 3.

Car Credit bolstered its unlimited Eastern Division lead by routing Mount Rainier Merchants at Mount Rainier High School, 26-0; Anacostia Eagles retained their Western Division supremacy by walloping Sng Harbor Tavern on Fairlawn No. 2, by 33-0; Prince Georges and Arlington Merchants tied at Alexandria Municipal Stadium, 6-6, and Eig's Liquors defeated Falls Church Garage at Falls Church, Va., High School, 14-0.

Jamaica Races Resume Today

New York, Oct. 19 (AP).—Horse racing returns to Jamaica tomorrow, it was announced officially tonight following the end of a four-day strike of grooms and exercise riders which forced the cancellation of yesterday's program.

Robert Kelley, spokesman for the five New York racing associations, announced the "definite" resumption of the Jamaica meeting at the end of a lengthy session.

Approximately 200 owners and trainers met for three hours today with the Rev. William J. Kelley, chairman of the State Labor Relations Board, who outlined the code agreement drafted earlier in the week by a committee appointed by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Father Kelley said representatives of 97 owners and trainers had signed the agreement before today's meeting. At least 20 others signed today and more were expected to do so tomorrow, it was stated.

The agreement between the owners and trainers and the AFL Teamsters Union, bargaining agent for the grooms and exercise boys, extends to September, 1949.

Monaghan, Dado Fight

London, Oct. 19 (AP).—The world's mightiest mites of the ring, Hawaiian Dado Marino and Irish Crooner Rinty Monaghan, battle tomorrow night for a lot of money and for the right to be hailed as flyweight champion.

Promoter Jack Solomons billed the 15-round bout for the world's 112-pound title. It is—and it isn't.

Jackie Paterson, Glasgow Scotsman and former flyweight champion, won an injunction Friday against the British Boxing Board of Control, preventing it from immediately recognizing a new champion.

But while the winner may be denied—temporarily, at least—his hour of glory in the very ring where he triumphs, other parts of the world will hail him as the king of the 112 pounders.

The governors of boxing in the United States, beyond the legal reach of Paterson's writ, will recognize the winner. Abe J. Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, cabled Marino's manager Sad Sam Ichinose, today thus "Marino Monoghan OK for title. Suggest winner box Paterson."

The New York State Boxing Commission, according to Solomons, has confirmed that it considers the title vacant and Marino and Monoghan the logical contenders.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

3 Speakers Denounce D. C. School Segregation

Belief in Super Race Is Fascism, One Says In Referring to Newell Statement

The segregation of white and Negro children in the District public schools was denounced by three speakers at a meeting of the D. C. Branch, National Association for Advancement of Colored People yesterday.

The speakers, one of them white, joined in a discussion of the District's school and playground segregation policy before about 75 persons at the first fall meeting held in the John Wesley Church, 14th and Corcoran sts. nw.

In denouncing school segregation, Leon A. Ransom, counsel for the national group, declared there is no law requiring the Board of Education to set up separate schools, or barring pupils because of color.

This is the basis for a suit he has filed on behalf of a 13-year-old girl, Marguerite Daisy Carr, to test the legality of segregation.

Like Ransom, who declared "we're going to be accused of being radical and Communistic," Mrs. C. Leslie Glenn, vice chairman of the NAACP committee on racial democracy, referred sarcastically to the recent statement on segregation by Clifford H. Newell, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Mrs. Glenn, wife of the rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, speaking of Newell's reminder of how France fell before the Nazis, declared, "Belief in a super-race is Fascism."

"We are Americans, Mr. Newell," she continued, "and Americans believe in changing things when they are wrong."

She scored the Board of Recreation for "disliking children," for setting aside for them a "perfectly ridiculous" amount of land, for "taking away their right to choose their friends," and for "teaching children to disobey the law" by "forcing on them a pattern" which has "no legal basis."

Adults, she added, are victims of similar "disservice" because of segregation. She pointed out she would not be permitted to speak before the same audience in a school building.

Dr. Edwin B. Henderson, vice president of the local branch and administrator of physical education for two school divisions, declared that segregation is costly, and that even by spending 50 million dollars on a dual school system, "we won't have equal education." He said children become frustrated if barred or segregated, and "some white children have developed a sense of superiority which is bad in this modern world."

The Rev. Stephen Gill Spottswood, chairman of the local branch who conducted the meeting, appealed for funds for the legal battle against segregation in United States District Court.

2 Cameras, Plates Taken From Hotel, Saturday Evening Post Man Reports

A Saturday Evening Post photographer today holds a dim view of honesty in the Nation's Capital.

The veteran picture-taker, Larry P. Keighley, reported to local police the loss of his equipment (valued at $1169) and labors of the past 10 days (no estimate given). They were taken, he said, from a closet in his locked room, at Hotel Statler.

"I spent three months in Europe recently, and didn't lose a plate," he declared in faith-shaking comparison.

Keighley said he discovered his loss at 9 p. m., Saturday, on his return to the hotel from a visit to the National Press Club. His room, he said, showed no signs of having been entered, and the door was still locked.

Was Just Gone, He Says

"The stuff was just gone," he declared.

He listed the "stuff" as two cameras, accessory equipment and an undetermined number of exposed plates of pictures he had taken here for two assignments of his magazine.

Asked if he would re-take the photographs, he said he was awaiting directions from the magazine. The assignments? A secret known only to Keighley, the magazine, and perhaps the subjects photographed.

Keighley said the equipment was insured but that some of it was of German make and irreplaceable.

A number of other victims of robberies here over the weekend held somewhat similar views on local honesty.

Lose $420 to Pants Burglars

William Napoleon Rivers, 50, of 4011 Massachusetts ave. se., reported the loss of over $420 to a "pants burglar." Rivers said that he, his wife, Gertrude, and their two nephews retired Saturday midnight with the house lights on.

Rivers said he awoke yesterday morning to find his trousers missing from the chair beside his bed. So did the nephews, Solomon and Coolidge McCants of New York.

They found the three pairs of trousers later, on the dining room floor. Missing were Rivers' wallet, with $400 cash, and wallets of the two visitors, with $20 and railroad tickets home.

William T. Smith, principal of Bell Vocational High School, 7th and O sts. nw., reported yesterday that someone ransacked his office Saturday night and broke into the office safe. He was unable to estimate the loss but said it "probably wasn't much."

Held Up on Street

Jesse Head, 37, of 902 12th st. ne., told police he was attacked at 10 p. m. Saturday while walking near 12th and I stes. ne. His three unidentified assailants, he said, took his billfold containing $35. Head was treated at Casualty Hospital for face bruises.

Stanley Mann, 13, of 621½ Park rd. ne., told police he was similarly attacked by two young men at 9:30 p. m. Saturday, in the 1300 block of Park rd. nw. He lost $6, taken from his pocket.

Willie Dunn, 32, of 324 D st. sw., reported to police that he, too, was attacked, at 5 a. m., yesterday in the 1200 block of 1st st. nw. His attackers fled with his $60, he said. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for cuts on the face.

Today's Menu: Sun, Breezes, About 80 Top

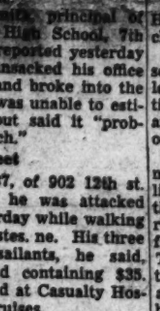
Weebee, The Washington Post Weatherbird, stuck his conveniently short neck out yesterday to predict pleasant weather for the Washington area today.



Weebee, like all experienced prognosticators, knows it is far more dangerous to guess wrong on fair weather predictions than foul. Nevertheless, he said, today will be mostly sunny, and less humid than Sunday.

He called for a temperature high of about 80 degrees today, favored by gentle winds, mostly northwest.

Yesterday's temperature range ran between a low of 63 degrees and the day's high of 81, with skies alternately clear, cloudy and overcast. Humidity for the day was slightly above average.

Sleeping Tablets Suspected in Death

An overdose of sleeping tablets is believed by police to have caused the death yesterday of Mrs. Allie Lee Miles, 47, 1523 M st. nw.

Mrs. Miles' husband, John Miles, 28, told police he awoke about 7:30 a. m. to find his wife unconscious. She was pronounced dead upon arrival at Gallinger Hospital by a staff doctor.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald held an autopsy yesterday afternoon but withheld a certificate pending results of a chemical analysis.

Police said Mrs. Miles had been given a prescription for a sedative about a week ago.

Masonic Council's Presentation Is 1st Day Highlight Of Sessions Here

A marble statue of George Washington was presented to the Washington Cathedral yesterday by the Supreme Masonic Council, Scottish Rite, of the Southern Jurisdiction.

Presentation ceremonies before some 400 persons in the cathedral transept at 5:15 p. m. highlighted the first day of the council's biennial sessions which will continue here through Friday.

The white, Vermont marble figure—seven feet, six inches tall—incorporates, according to Sculptor Lee Lawrie, Easton, Md., forms employed by such artists as Houdon, Peale and Stuart.

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, who accepted the gift from John H. Cowles, sovereign grand commender of the Grand Council, pointed out that the statue depicts Washington entering Christ Church, Alexander, Va., and pausing a moment with hat in hand before going down the aisle to his pew.

Cowles, in a brief presentation address, said that the late James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, who died in 1943, orginated the gift plan. Washington, a master Mason and worshipful master of Alexandria Lodge No. 22, is to be the first to be honored in a "Masonic Corner" similar to the poet's, doctor's and historian's corners in Westminister Abbey, London, Cowles said.

The statue, now in the transept, eventually will be moved to the first bay on the right side of the nave when the cathedral is completed.

The Supreme Council, which represents 33 States, will meet this morning at 10 in the House of the Temple. Members of the 14th degree will be admitted after Cowles has given his opening address.

C. U. Professor Terms Marriage Vows Sacred

The sacredness of the marriage vows was stressed yesterday by the Rev. Edmund D. Benard, of Catholic University faculty.

Preaching on NBC's "Catholic Hour" program, Father Benard declared, in part:

"Marriage as a sacrament, as source of grace and a pledge of love, is the firm and fast foundation that Christ our Lord designed and provided for the life together of a husband and wife.

"The Catholic attitude toward marriage is based upon the Catholic teaching about marriage. And the Catholic teaching about marriage is based primarily on the fact that marriage is a sacrament. This is the great foundation—truth, as necessary and practical, as the base on which a house is built."

Pediatrician Is Speaker

A resident physician at Children's Hospital, who plans a medical missionary career, was among the guest speakers in pulpits as the Baptist evangelical campaign entered its second week.

He was Dr. Charles Green, an ordained Baptist minister, who preached last night at Petworth Baptist Church, 7th and Randolph sts. nw. He served in the Army Medical Corps during the war and plans to go to China when his residence work is finished next April at Children's Hospital.

Club Hears India Official

Private Flier Dies Hitting Power Line At Virginia Beach

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 19 (AP).—The blackened hands of an Elgin watch, stopped at 11:40 a. m., mutely fixed the time of a plane landing accident which today cost the life of Ennis C. Andrews, 43, of Rice, Prince Edward County, Va.

Eyewitnesses at the Virginia Beach Airport told of seeing the light Luscomb "Silvaire" skimming today a 13,200-volt power line at the edge of the field. It bounced from the power line a moment later, a spectacular, flaming pyre.

The light, all-metal ship flipflopped from the taller electric line, across the Norfolk-Southern railbus tracks and into shorter telephone wires before it settled on the ground in flames so intense as to virtually ignite the magnesium-aluminum alloy fuselage.

Efforts to extinguish the fire were almost fruitless as rescuers sought to free the pilot whose body was burned beyond recognition.

Andrews, a truck line operator, is survived by his wife and two young children.

Senior CAA Inspector H. B. Gowan of Richmond reached the airport by plane shortly after the crash. His investigation established "pilot error" as responsible for the accident.

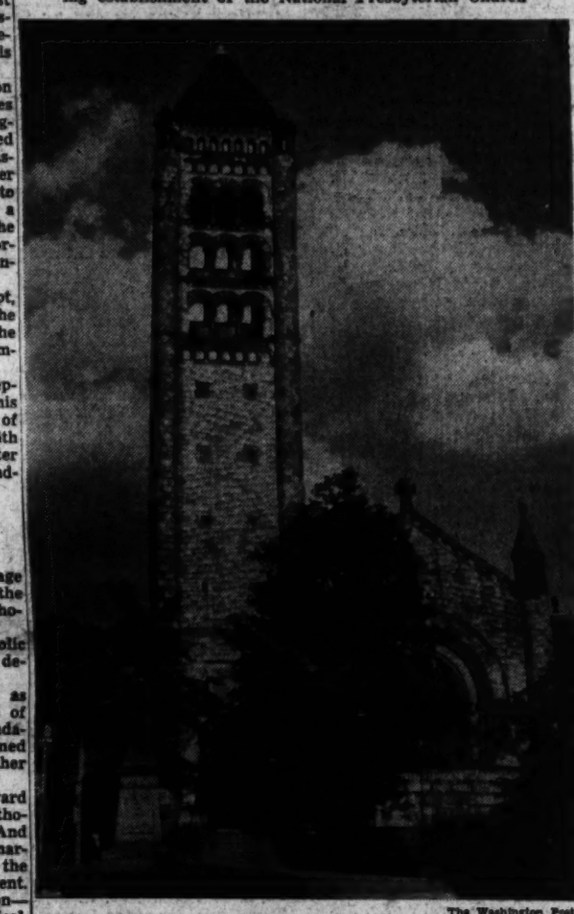
PLAQUE UNVEILED—President Truman unveils plaque marking establishment of the National Presbyterian Church



The Washington Post

COVENANT-FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH at 18th and N sts. and Connecticut ave. nw., which grew out of a religious meeting of a group of Scottish stonemasons in a shed on what are now the White House grounds, yesterday was the scene of a service marking the church's official designation as the National Presbyterian Church

things for which we stand, an honorable, decent peace in the world for every nation in it, may be accomplished."

Dr. Witherspoon, whose bronze likeness stands on the grassy triangle near the church, was cited by Mr. Truman as the man "who organized and consolidated the Presbyterian Church in America, founded the College of New Jersey which later became Princeton University, and, from what I hear, was quite some man."

The President was accompanied by Mrs. Truman and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Harry Vaughan. Mr. Truman wore a dark-gray double-breasted suit with his first World War silver discharge button in his lapel.

Before laying the wreath, Dr. Dodds also paid tribute to Witherspoon, saying the Nation needed to "reaffirm its faith in his doctrine of liberty and freedom."

During the outdoor portion of the two-hour rites, the National Presbyterian Choir, wearing purple and white vestments, led the crowd in singing the "Old Hundredth" hymn. Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation.

Occupies Presidential Pew

The White House party occupied the Presidential Pew (No. 33), from which Presidents Andrew Jackson, James M. Polk, Grover Cleveland and Franklin Pierce once worshiped.

After the indoor rites, when twilight had descended, Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church, escorted the Presidential party to its car. Dr. Elson, a former Fifth Army chaplain, presided at the outdoor ceremonies and gave the benediction at the indoor rites, where the presiding clergyman was the Rev. Horace C. Lukens, pastor of Vienna (Va.) Presbyterian Church and Moderator of the Washington City Presbytery.

Ministers of the city's leading Protestant demoninations, members of the President's Cabinet and of the Supreme Court and diplomats were among the 1500 worshipers inside the gray-stone church.

They included Attorney General Tom Clark; Justices William O. Douglas and Stanley Reed; Sir John McGowan of the British Embassy; Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, Federation of Churches' executive secretary; Dr. C. C. Hung, pastor of the Chinese Community Church, and others.

The congregation, including 400 who listened from amplifiers in an auxiliary chapel, heard Wilbur LaRoe, jr., moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, call upon the church to answer militarism by fighting for Christian principles.

Calls for Resurgence

Dr. William Barrow Pugh, stated clerk of the Presbyterian General Assembly, in his address called for a resurgence of the spiritual and political heroism of Presbyterian pioneers.

The speaker said the early Presbyterians were "leaders in the marvelous making of America, carrying light and order far out on the prairie and across the mountains."

Albert J. McCartney, pastor-emeritus of the National Presbyterian Church and now director of the Chicago Sunday Evening Club, read telegrams and other greetings from American and foreign Presbyterian organizations. One message from the Rev. Charles L. Warr, minister of St. Giles' Cathedral in Edinburgh, Scotland, declared in part:

"Old St. Giles, where John Knox proclaimed the fundamental principles of spiritual freedom and democracy, will always be linked in a close family relationship with that church which is now to represent historic Presbyterianism in the Capital of the United States . . ."

Covenant-First Church grew out of a merger in 1930 of First and Covenant congregations. First Church was started in 1792 by a group of Scottish stonemasons who held religious services in a carpenter shop on the now White House lawn. For many years it was known as "The Little Church Under the Hill," because of its proximity to the Capitol. Covenant Church, which was composed of Supreme Court members and other notables of the Dupont Circle area, was organized in 1883. Their building was opened in 1889 in the same week that Benjamin Harrison, one of their communicants, was inaugurated as President.

2 Dead, 8 Hurt In Weekend Md. Crashes

Four persons were killed and eight others injured in three traffic accidents in Maryland over the week-end.

Two Middletown, Del., men were killed instantly and six Delawareans injured in one of the accidents, a head-on collision Saturday night on Route 299, one-half mile north of Massey, Md. The dead were identified as Paul Franklin Jester, 23, and Edward Guessford, 24.

The six injured, all occupants of the second vehicle, were named as Wilbert Wrench, Venia Mae Carpenter, Alice Mildred Wilmer, Blanche Hutchinson, Barnice Carpenter and Willard A Carpenter, all of Millside, Md.

In a second accident, James P. Holden, 23, a naval fireman of Aberdeen, Md., was killed when his automobile left the road and struck a tree at Perryman, late Saturday. Two other sailors, William R. Poole of Newburn, N. C., and Bernard Wheeler of Aberdeen, were hurt in the accident.

Jesse L. Butler, 36, of Mount Airy, Md., a Baltimore shipyard worker, was killed in the third fatal traffic accident. He was struck by an automobile as he walked along the Ridgeville-Mount Airy rd., in Frederick County, early Sunday, police said.

A United States Naval Academy midshipman and his girl friend, knocked off an Annapolis (Md.) railroad trestle by a train Saturday night, were both reported in improved condition yesterday.

Midshipman 2/c William B. Anderson of West Branch, Iowa, the more seriously hurt of the couple who had been sitting on the bridge trestle, was pronounced in "fair condition" at the academy hospital. His companion, Miss Betty Ann Neal, of Arlington Farms, Va., was reported in "good condition" at Baltimore's Emergency Hospital.

Sanitary Chief Cites High Cost of 'Leaving'

Relaxation of regulations pertaining to leaf-burning here would save the District both money and trouble, Sanitory Engineer Harold A. Kemp suggested yesterday.

Removal of leaves is more costly and difficult than that of any other type of refuse, and is aggravated by the increase and growth here of trees, Kemp said in his annual 1947 fiscal report to the District Commissioners.

Acting Fire Marshal Charles Laschalt said present regulations allow residents to burn leaves on private property between sunrise and sunset if an adult is always present, if fires within 15 feet of buildings are in metal containers with screen tops, and if the smoke doesn't create a nuisance.

The report showed that during the 12 months ending June 30 the city used a total of 54,659,457,000 gallons of water; that nearly 30 miles of new sewers were installed; that debris swept from streets and alleys has increased 81 per cent since 1940; that more than $129,000 was spent to remove snow from District streets; that trash collections totaled more than a million cubic yards, and that 59,137 tons of garbage and 53,892 dead animals were picked up by the refuse division.

Insecticidists Organize

'Borrowed' Plane, 2 Held

Police last night announced the arrest of two sailors who crash landed near Wilmington, Del., after a flight from Annapolis, Md., in a private plane owned by a naval officer.

They identified the youths as Joseph Gionet, 19, and Robert Naylor, 23, both stationed aboard the aircraft carrier Black Island. Neither was hurt.

Police said they had taken a training plane belonging to Lieut. Donald E. Walport, also stationed aboard the carrier.

The plane landed in a pasture on the farm of U. S. Senator C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.) and nosed over. The propeller and landing gear were damaged. The youths are being held for naval authorities at Annapolis.

Spray Gun as Weapon

As any bug could have told him, Milton A. Myers, 37, learned yesterday that an insect spray gun is a dangerous weapon.

Myers, who lives at 1234 20th st. nw., got into an early-morning argument with Rosetta Williams, 42, at her home, 1226 Wards Court nw., and she struck him over the head several times with the spray gun, police said.

He was treated at Emergency Hospital for head lacerations. A charge of assault with a dangerous weapon was lodged against her.

Turkey Men to Eat Steak

Turkey steak, solution for the big bird problem, will be featured at the annual fall meeting of the Maryland Turkey Producers Association Friday at 10:30 a. m. in Carvel Hall, Annapolis, Md.

The steaks are made by processing fresh turkey meat in a machine which thoroughly blends the portions and produces a product resembling tenderized steak. "Most families can't use a 20-to-30-pound turkey and Maryland producers have had difficulty in selling the big birds," according to James M. Gwin of the poultry department at the University of Maryland. "With this new method the consumer will be able to buy as little or as much turkey as he wants."

Galax Mopping Up

The 3000 citizens of Galax, Va., yesterday began mopping up after a freak flash flood which swept in without warning early Saturday, forcing 150 families to abandon their homes, destroying a half dozen dwellings and knocking out the town's only water supply.

Yesterday, volunteers had the town pumping system dried out and, for the first time in more than 48 hours, drinking water was available.

Damage was estimated at "not more than $250,000." Mayor Ross C. Penrey said the town probably would be back to normal by Wednesday.

Boy Sends Two Alarms

Police yesterday were seeking a boy about 14 years old who turned in two false fire alarms from a box at 18th and Harvard sts. nw.

The boy, about five feet four inches tall, weighing about 115 pounds and wearing a blue suit and tie, pulled the box about 1:05 p. m., walked off toward the Zoo, then returned at 3:10 p. m. to send in a second alarm.

The District offers a reward for information leading to the arrest of anyone turning in a false alarm.

Shower of Meteors

The earth will get a shower Wednesday night starting at about 11 o'clock. But it isn't the weatherman who says so.

This time it's the astronomers, who explain that the Orion meteors will start falling at about that time, and probably will continue during most of the night, with encore performances the next few nights. Most Orion meteors burn out in the earth's atmosphere, and few reach the earth. The meteors are so called because they seem to come out of the constellation Orion. They are from the debris left by Halley's Comet, last seen by the naked eye in 1910. They should be visible in the south and east skies.

Church 192 Years Old

The minister's services were obtained by Veit Martweg, a harnessmaker, and 10 other Lutherans who were among the Germans who settled there shortly after Baltimore town was laid out in 1729.

Bro. Gilbert, Discoverer Of Ruth, Dies

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 19 (AP).—The Rev. Brother Gilbert, 62, C. F. X., discoverer of Babe Ruth, died today from a cerebral hemorrhage during afternoon retreat services at Keith Academy, Roman Catholic boys' high school.

Academy officials said Brother Gilbert was kneeling in his pew and another brother heard him sigh. At the end of the services, he failed to arise.

Brother Gilbert first recognized Babe Ruth's baseball ability while serving at St. Mary's Industrial School in Baltimore. In 1914, he took Ruth, then a gangling youngster, to manager Jack Dunn of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League, who developed Ruth as a pitcher.

Ruth, who later became baseball's greatest home run hitter, was sold in that same year to Harry Frazee's Boston Red Sox, where he developed into one of the game's greatest all-time stars.

Actively interested in athletics, Brother Gilbert was a close friend of many of the country's leading baseball figures, including Connie Mack, John McGraw, Jack Dunn and Judge Landis. Among his latest proteges to make the big leagues was Pitcher Joe Coleman of the Philadelphia Athletics, who twirled for Malden (Mass.) Catholic High School as a schoolboy.

Brother Gilbert was working on a biography of Babe Ruth at the time of his death.

A native of Somerville, Mass., he was a graduate of Catholic University at Washington, where he also received his M.A. degree in mathematics.

Funeral services will be held in St. Peter's Church, Lowell, Wednesday morning, and burial will be at St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers, Mass.

Mrs. Newman Rites Today At Hyattsville

Funeral services for Mrs. Edith B. Newman, 65, of 6204 Lombard st., Cheverly, Md., attorney and at one time a leading feminist, will be held at 5 p. m. today at Gasch's funeral home, 4739 Baltimore ave., Hyattsville, Md. Burial will be in Lincoln Cemetery.

Mrs. Newman died Saturday at Prince Georges General Hospital following a long illness. Born in Boston, Mass., she was a descendant of the Colonial family of Blaisdell. She was the widow of John B. Newman.

Mrs. Newman was one of the first American women to go to Havana, Cuba, following the Spanish-American War, serving there as a court reporter for the American army of occupation.

In 1912 she came to Washington and was employed in the Latin American division of the State Department under Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan. Subsequently, she served as a translator with the Mexican Claims Commission, being familiar with Spanish legal procedure, and again for a time in Havana for the State Department.

She was admitted to the District Bar in 1917.

Mrs. Newman was a member of the National Woman's Party, and was one of the women who picketed the White House in an effort to get President Wilson's support of the Suffrage Amendment.

Surviving are two sisters and a brother: Miss Lillian B. Blaisdell of Cheverly; Miss Elizabeth Blaisdell, of New York City, and Louis S. Blaisdell, Arequita, Peru, who is now visiting in Washington. Also surviving is a nephew, William W. Blaisdell, New York City.

District Bridge Teams Fight To Save Two Championships

By Marian H. Barre
Post Reporter

Local fans spent the concluding hours of the annual Washington Bridge League tourney fighting to save two championships still in competition late last night at the Shoreham Hotel. Three out of four previous events were captured by visiting players.

Games on yesterday's schedule were a match for teams of four, and the metropolitan pair contest for the Eynon Bowl and the Evening Star Cup.

At the close of the first session, the lineup of J. J. Parish, John McDermott, both of Washington; William Christian of Montgomery, Ala., and B. O. Johnson of Spartansburg, N. C., had a two-board lead over one of the favored foursomes made up of Mrs. R. C. Young, David Warner, Philadelphia; Mrs. Paula Bacher, East Orange, N. J., and Levin Roet, New York. Both teams had played 27 matches, with the Parish team winning 20.

The other favorite was captained by Charles Solomon, ranking ace in the tournament. Its other members were Mrs. Ben Golder, Peter Leventritt and Bob Hawk. Solomon and Golder are Philadelphians, their partners New Yorkers. Thos foursome had won 15½ out of 24 boards, and were one up on a D. C. team playing Dr. W. H. Gorton, president of the Washington Bridge League; Dr. N. J. McHugh, president emeritus, and Mr. and Mrs. Barnard Rosson.

Nineteen teams were entered in the Eynon contest, all playing throughout without elimination. The field was one of the strongest in any D. C. tourney, with 12 life masters competing. Only 90 players in the United States have reached this highest rank in bridge.

Leaders at the halfway mark in ma Byrns and Mrs. Daisy W. Love, who scored 170 match points for a 15-point lead over Mrs. J. V. Waits and Mrs. J. D. Boyd, with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Byrns just one behind the second pair.

The Woodward Cup for open pairs is the WBL's most-traveled trophy. This year is goes to New Gerne, N. C., in the custody of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Duffy. Entering the finals Saturday night with a minimum carry-over, the Duffys won with 295 match points. Some of those who were defeated were: Harold Stone and Berl Sternberg, Baltimore, runners-up, 289½ points; Mrs. Leon Landauer and Herbert Gerst, Norfolk, 289; Joseph Cohan, Wooster, Ohio, George Unger, New York, 285; Mrs. R. C. Young and David Warner, Philadelphia; 282½; Charles Solomon and Mrs. Ben Golder, 282.

Washington was completely snowed under—Leroy Thurtell made the best local showing in twelfth position with R. L. Miles, jr., of Norfolk. Mrs. F. Eberson and W. A. Poissant, placing fourteenth was the best all-local partnership. Many top-notchers even failed to survive for the finals—"Consolation" Section A, resulting in a tie between McHugh-Gorton, J. G. Stone-Lewis G. Tubbs.

Mrs. Katharine Byron And Fiance Are Feted

By Marie McNair

"Just so she isn't late for her wedding," a philosophical wag, remarked while waiting for the guests of honor to arrive at the cocktail party yesterday given by Mr. and Mrs. Royce Powell for Mrs. Katharine Byron and Samuel Biddick.

Breathless and charmingly apologetic, the bride-to-be and her fiance who'll be married in Williamsport, Md., on Saturday, arrived at the Powells' house when the party was well under way, to find almost everybody there to greet them.

Royce and Louise Powell whipped up this merry gathering in nothing flat, having only returned on Saturday from a trip to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Toledo and points west.

Gen. McAuliffe There

Upstairs in the library Royce's favorite room, which is ceiling-high with books and photographs, there was a bar; downstairs in the dining room another bar and buffet, so traffic flowed evently between the two.

Traffic seemed to be all one way at the front door too, and that way was in. No one seemed to leave.

Early arrivals were Gen. and Mrs. A. C. McAuliffe, and Ralph Forster, who found himself a niche for a drink with Miss Dolly Corbin and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mauldin.

Pretty little Mrs. Frank Vanderlip, jr., was there in a full skirted taffeta frock in ballerina length.

Louise Powell's simple little black frock had the new hemline and the guest of honor who wore black, too, with an orchid at her shoulders, toppe dher costume with a wide brimmed hat dripping in uncurled ostrich.

Miss Bertha Joseph in a slim gray suit was enlivening the gathering with her ready quips; George Williams, Donald Baruch and Fred Roy, were being agreeable "extra" men.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Dunne were there and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz, Mrs. Dorothy Lee Ward, just back from a summer in Europe, and streaming in all at once were former Representative and Mrs. Charles Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja and Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Stackelberg.

Mrs. Bolton Welcomed

It was good to see Mrs. Luther Matthew Bolton—Carrie to all her friends—who's been away for months, but says she's here now for the winter.

Nancy Mann was squired by Meade Patrick; Mrs. Morris Cafritz, with Mr. Cafritz, was easily one of the best dressed in the room, and still others there were the Lothrop Stoddards, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hatch, Ralph Newman, Mrs. McCeney Werlich and her son, Bobby; Mrs. Sims Snow, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hill, John Conkey, Mrs. Powell's brother.

And I mustn't forget to mention the tawny haired young daughters of the house, Julie and Lissa, there to lend a helping hand and loving every minute of it.

Man and Wife Don't Drink; Both Prefer Caffeine to Alcohol; but Man Is Chafed By Wife's Teetotaler Policy With Guests

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My wife and I don't drink. We both prefer tea or coffee to a glass of wine and when we go out socially we decline highballs or cocktails, unless to do so would seriously embarass our hosts and spoil the party—in which case we accept a token drink.

I, perhaps, make more concessions on this point than does Faith (my wife); but not enough to change my known status as a nondrinker. I am grateful when thoughtful hosts offer a choice of beverages.

Our problem is that Faith and I don't agree on our manner of entertaining. She prefers that no alcohol should enter our personal lives, whereas I find myself still unreconciled—after many years of sincere effort to subscribe—to such a drastic program.

To repay a gay expensive cocktail party with a quiet little family dinner embellished by serious conversation has become impossible, from my viewpoint. Am I wrong? Do our parties fall flat because I myself am ashamed of them? Or have I the right to ask Faith to compromise?

He Is Sociable; Likes Good Time

I WOULD gladly settle for one or two parties a year, which offered guests a choice of fruit or wine punch, sherry and tomato juice; but I am getting to the point where I can no longer talk to Faith about the matter. I just dodge all the social engagements I can and discourage our doing any entertaining.

Freedom of conscience is a serious thing; therefore I hesitate to tamper with Faith's; but I am a sociable person and in middle life I seem to crave a good time as much as ever. I would appreciate your slant on the situation; also those of your readers. I believe this is a moot issue in many homes—much more than is generally realized.

To re-state the issue: Is it fitting and proper for those families who don't drink to entertain without alcohol, relying on the charm of friendliness and good spirits? Or should these people serve some wine as a gracious concession to the taste and opinion of their guests? J. B.

Problem Isn't What He Thinks

DEAR J. B.: To thine own self be true in the social role, whether as host or guest. That is, if you have the courage to do so.

According to civilized code, a man's home is his castle and it is his privilege to dispense therein the brand of hospitality which reflects his or the family's tastes and customary habits of life. The choice is with the guest to take or leave what is offered of food and drink.

So much for that, but to proceed: Your problem isn't what you think. You're in middle age, sometimes called the flighty forties or foolish fifties, and have reached a point in an abstemious life where you're ineffably, inexplicably bored with the old routine.

Vaguely aware that the sands of time are running out, you are unconsciously beset by rebellious anxiety on the score of what you may have missed and may never experience, of sensory or worldly pleasures, due to playing second fiddle to your wife's teetotaler—and perhaps generally ascetic—performance.

He's Rejecting Wife as Boring

IN EVADING joint social engagements, discouraging home entertaining and bogging down into unwillingness even to trade views with Faith any more, you are figuratively repudiating her company and restrictions as intolerably boring and frustrating—from your latterday subconscious slant. Doubtless also it's boredom on your part, rather than embarrassment, which makes those little dinners seem a trial and a failure.

As I get the picture, the marriage is drifting towards a serious psychological rift, and Faith would be well advised to relax her rigid prohibitive attitude towards drink, if such would revive conjugal camaraderie.

Her teetotaler convictions are entitled to respect, as she applies them to herself; but in my opinion they don't invest her with moral right to flatly overrule your sociable impulse to serve mild potions in moderation to guests who might enjoy them. M. H.

Ask Anne

Your Questions On Homemaking

1. My baby's "Baby Book" has space to put her hand and foot prints. Just what kind of a solution do I use to make such prints?

2. How do you remove cod liver oil stains from white cotton underwear and a white wool sweater? A. V. P.

1. At a stationery or variety store, buy a stamp pad commonly used to ink rubber stamps. Press your baby's hand and foot onto this for a print.

2. To remove cod liver oil from cotton materials, soak in cleaning fluid, rubbing between the fingers. Wash in hot suds and rinse. If the stains are old and have turned light brown, the above may not remove them. Try using a bleach in the proportion of one tablespoon bleach to one quart of water. Soak 15 minutes and rinse three times. To remove the stains from wool, soak 30 minutes or longer in bleach made by mixing two tablespoons of hydrogen peroxide to each gallon of water. Rinse twice.

1. A bottle of liquid broke in my suitcase, and caused the red lining to fade on some white rayon crepe lingerie in big red streaked spots. Can you suggest a method to remove these stains?

2. How can I remove stains made by curry powder sauce on an ecru linen tablecloth? E. L. B.

1. It is difficult to suggest ways to remove dye stains because there are so very many kinds of dye. Also, this type of stain is about the most difficult to remove. However, you might try bleaching them out. Add a few drops of ammonia to one pint of hydrogen peroxide. Make it just before using because it loses its strength quickly. Sponge the stain with this solution. Follow by sponging or rinsing with water. If this doesn't remove the stain, I would suggest you consider dying the garments a darker color.

2. Try sponging the curry spots with denatured alcohol. Test it first in an inconspicuous spot to be sure it won't harm the color of the tablecloth.

New Petrillo Ban Approved By Musicians

Chicago, Oct. 19 (U.P.)—Top musicians solidly supported James C. Petrillo today in his ban against recordings, a move which may wipe out an estimated 10 million dollars annually in musicians' earnings and in time deal a serious blow to the 200 million dollars recording industry.

The ban brought bitter comment from some music industry leaders and representatives of artists affected.

Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL), said yesterday that his musicians will make no more records or transcriptions after December 31. He said recordings were killing musicians' earning power.

Bandleader Guy Lombardo expressed sentiments of musicians by saying he hoped Petrillo's action would bring "misuses of recordings" to the attention of the public. Like other musicians and some music industry officials, he hoped Petrillo would come to terms with the recording companies before the deadline.

Crosbys Negotiating

If there is no agreement, the ban will:

1. Prevent big name stars, such as Bing Crosby and Abbott and Costello, from transcribing their radio shows. At Hollywood, Crosby's brother, Larry, said they were in the middle of negotiations with Petrillo regarding Crosby's transcribed show and they didn't expect any trouble.

2. Eventually affect the juke box industry, which grosses about 480 million dollars annually from 500,000 juke boxes, because of lack of popular recordings.

3. In time make the going tough for "disc jockeys," including Paul Whiteman, Ted Husing and Martin Block, since they would be unable to obtain popular new tunes.

4. Mean a death blow eventually for many smaller record shops which depend for their profit on the turnover of popular tunes.

However, some companies had anticipated such a ruling from Petrillo and have been building up large backlogs of records which may carry them for as much as two years.

Musicians to Lose Royalties

The musicians themselves will lose about five million dollars annually in earnings from making recordings, about two million dollars in earnings from transcriptions and three million dollars in royalties paid to the union by recording companies.

Frank Walker, general manager of Metro-Glodwyn-Mayer's record division, called Petrillo's action "very high-handed," a "great public disservice" and a threat to free enterprise.

Mark Woods, president of the American Broadcasting Co., said "we do feel that in the final analysis it will be the American people who will determine what they'll hear, and when and how they'll hear it. Americans love music. No individual can deprive them of it for long."

Spade Cooley, "King of Western Sing," said elimination of recordings would cut his business $30,000 to $50,000 annually.

Spivak Backs Petrillo

Charlie Spivak, now at New York's Paramount Theater, said he was "sorry" about the ban "but I'm solidly behind Mr. Petrillo."

Xavier Cugat, rhumba band leader, playing at a Philadelphia cafe, said the ban would help him. He said it would hurt artists recording popular tunes but that his rhumba recordings were "choice selections" that will not be outdated. He said he has a backlog of 150 recordings and he could "lay off for five years if necessary."

"I love Petrillo," he said, "and some day when I retire I'm going to build a monument to him."

Solution to Saturday's Puzzle

Suspect Held In Slaying of Virginia Man

Fairfax County police yesterday announced they were holding a suspect in the slaying of Clifton Proctor, a 27-year-old Gum Springs, Va., laborer.

Proctor's body, badly decomposed, was found late Saturday near the Fort Hunt rd., about 1½ miles south of Route No. 1 highway near Belle Haven, in Fairfax County.

Police said the body was discovered by six men, who, at the instigation of a citizens' association, banded together to search for Proctor. Proctor, a married man, was reported missing October 2.

The body was buried in a shallow grave. The feet of the dead man were visible above the soil, police said.

An autopsy and subsequent X-rays established the fact he had been shot with a .25-caliber steel jacket bullet, the slug of which was buried in his spine.

Fairfax Police Chief Carl McIntosh said the suspect was arrested shortly after the discovery of Proctor's body and was being held for investigation. McIntosh said the suspect's name would be revealed "when he confesses."

Police said Proctor's body had been covered with a sheaf of newspapers and that the newspapers yesterday were taken to the FBI laboratory here for tests for latent fingerprints.

The body was identified, police said, by Proctor's brother by means of paratrooper shoes on the feet of the corpse. In the clothing on the decomposed body were a few dollars and an envelope bearing the dead man's name.

Police declined to comment on a possible motive for the slaying, declaring such disclosure might injure their case.

Poultrymen Invited

Higher 'Phone Rate Hearings Start Today

A hearing on proposed telephone rate increases, which would boost the average household bill 55 cents a month, will open at 10 a. m. today in the board room of the old District Building.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. has filed with the Public Utilities Commission a petition which would raise its local revenues two million dollars a year, or an etsimated net gain of $1,133,000.

The current home telephone base rate of $4.20 monthly would increase to $4.75 under the proposal, with other increases in business service and party-line rates.

Mass Meeting to Urge Monticello Highway

Manassas, Va., Oct. 19 (Spl.).—A series of country-wide mass meetings to promote the Monticello Highway project are being scheduled in the counties through which the proposed highway will pass. The first meeting will be held at the County Court House in Manassas Friday night at 8 p. m. with State Senator Andrew W. Clarke as chairman.

Hey, Gang! She Says We Have No Manners!

"There is little evidence," writes Bette A. Kohnen of 1800 Connecticut ave. nw., "that people in this area have ever been taught any manners.

"In boarding cars and buses they push you aside, knock you down, slam doors in your face, and never bother to acknowledge courtesy with a 'thank you.'

"In short, I think the people of Greater Washington are the rudest I have ever met."

Have you ever been in a New York subway, Bette?

I hate to argue with a lady, but I think the people of Washington are much more courteous (on the whole) than those of any other city I've ever visited.

ABOUT WEEBEE

Mrs. Anne M. Cowan of 3060 16th st. nw. writes:

"When your initials were used on the column, we used to call it 'Weegee's column.' So I think it's very appropriate that the Weatherbird should be named Weebee."

Bernice M. Willey of Lanham, Md., puts her Weebee thoughts to rhyme with the observation:

Wee bee havin' right nice weather;
Wee bee havin' other kind soon.
Maybe wee bee havin' cold spell
When wee bee havin' change of moon.

SUCCESS

Marion Galletly of the Applied Physics Laboratory at Johns Hopkins University writes:

"Some time ago I sent you a complaint about the good pictures that run downtown for a week and then disappear.

"I specifically mentioned 'The Web,' but you deleted that bit of publicity from my letter when you printed it.

"The other day a strange gentleman called me to tell me that 'The Web' was being booked into the Silver and the Sheridan Theaters, in response to your item.

"I'm wondering how he knew which picture I had in mind. I'm wondering if you took the trouble to tell him about the deleted portion of my letter."

Good. You keep right on wondering, Marion. All my life it has been my ambition to keep a female guessing, but I never thought I'd make it.

PERSONAL NOTES

Charles Kohen of 1900 F st. nw. has never had his picture taken with a highball in his hand—but nevertheless he's truly a man of distinction.

Today is Charlie's 60th birthday. But you'll find him in his stamp and coin shop at 716 17th st. nw., surrounded by the mementos of a quarter of a century of faithful service to his buddies of World War I.

KOHEN

They were earned by Charlie's tireless devotion to his wounded comrades. When he puts on a big show at the Bethesda Naval Hospital Wednesday night, it will be the 1080th time that District Liner Kohen has brought entertainment into local service hospitals.

Charlie has twice served as Commander of the Cooley-McCullough Post, and once as Commander of the Vincent Costello Post, of the American Legion.

He's also been Commander of the Columbia Post of the VFW, and a member of the executive committee of the Jewish War Veterans, Post 58.

But perhaps his greatest distinction is that he's the guy who didn't win the war singlehanded. Charlie went in as a buck private, and came out with the same rank.

He's just a good Joe who couldn't forget his wounded buddies.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

Wonder when they're going to rake the dead leaves off the White House lawn.

I CLAIM A FOUL

Sergt. Margie Harrison of Fort Myer, Va., slyly observes that there's another piece of Fire Department equipment which can't use Pennsylvania ave.—a fire house.

HOW APPROPRIATE

Speaking of postal zone numbers, Jo Hurley of 4616 48th st. nw. calls our attention to a startling bit of incidental information.

Washington's largest concentration of medical offices and Doctors' Hospital are all in zone "sicks."

ADD SIGNS

Mrs. Jay Whitson of 1631 S st. nw. passes along (without comment) the wording of a sign she saw on 14th st. nw.:

PAT
Your Hairdresser

Editors to Get Ride on New Train

NEW YORK.—Robert Butler, the American Ambassador to Australia, came back to Washington a few days ago. On his way back to the States the Ambassador stopped at Honolulu. He arrived there in time to attend the ceremonies which marked the sailing of the ship bringing 3000 of America's war dead home.

One of the dignitaries who was on the platform with him saw the Ambassador studying the ship, grimly and silently. "This is something we all should remember," he said to Ambassador Butler . . . "I know the ship well," said the former shipbuilder and now Ambassador Butler. "I built it."

One of America's best known writers lost $100,000 at the dice and card tables of Las Vegas, Nev. "I usually am a lucky gambler," he explained. "I thought that I could win a million dollars—and never would have to write again."

The Train of Tomorrow will have as its first real passengers the editors who are convening in Detroit and who will ride in it to Ann Arbor for the Michigan-Minnesota game.

Frank Costello, who was the No. 1 target of Fiorello LaGuardia's municipal broadcasts, carries a letter from LaGuardia in his wallet. It came as the result of a broadcast by the then mayor, appealing for Red Cross contributions. LaGuardia promised his listeners that all contributors—even those who sent $1 to him—would receive a personal thank-you letter from the mayor.

Costello, who had been listening to the broadcast expecting to hear Fiorello attack him, sent a $5000 check. By return mail, pursuant to the promise and a few days before LaGuardia resumed the attack, Costello got the thank-you note.

The Shuberts have sent a memo to theater press agents asking them to make a drastic cut in the reviewers' press list, which now has an all-time high of 70 pairs for opening nights and 150 for the second nights.

John Boynton Kaiser, director of the Newark Public Library, notified Helen Hayes—who plays the tipsy Newark librarian in "Happy Birthday"—that he had officially appointed her "Honorary Curator of Alcoholic Literature at the Newark Public Library."

Margaret Perry, who is returning to the theater as production assistant in the new Jane Cowl play, "The First Mrs. Fraser," once decided to live in a ranch house in Idaho. Her mother, the late Antoinette Perry, visited her there and learned that before her arrival the region had been covered with snow for many weeks . . . "How do you get about?" she asked her daughter, who explained that she had used a dog sled . . . "And did you use mush-dogs?" asked Mrs. Perry . . . "No, I used Irish setters," explained her red-headed daughter. "The Eskimo mush-dogs don't go well with my hair, and the Irish setters do."

George Tobias, the screen actor, arrived in New York from Hollywood to renew his practice of turning down play scripts offered him.

THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES THE CITIZENS OF WASHINGTON WHOSE HOMES ARE IN

NEW MEXICO...the sunshine state

We wish to thank The Hecht Company for this opportunity to tell the story of New Mexico, one of the starting points in the history of the white man in the United States, and today the seat of history-making discoveries in man's miraculous mastery of the power of the atom. In 1536, the Spanish Conquistadors first entered the present boundaries of the United States, followed four years later by Coronado's remarkable expedition through the Southwest. In the early 1600's, the Spanish made permanent settlements, building their adobe homes and missions and churches, which preceded most of those farther West by almost a century and a half. Their peaceful villages still remain, unlike anything else north of the Rio Grande . . . and reminiscent of Old Spain itself. In 1821, another great migration to this rich territory began . . . this time it was the Americans, who rolled West in covered wagons along the historic Santa Fe Trail and Butterfield State Route. Both these groups, along with the Indians, who reached an advanced stage of civilization many centuries ago, have left their imprint on the culture of our State. New Mexico today is a combination of the best of the old and the new. The Indians are skilled artisans, with a rich heritage of handicraft arts . . . turning out exquisite silver work, pottery and woven rugs. Yet right in the heart of the Indian territory, at Taos and Santa Fe, are contemporary literary and artistic colonies. In New Mexico, the ruts of the Santa Fe Trail are still visible and the Indians may still be seen in their ceremonial dances, chanting their ancient pleas for rain and harvest. It is strange contrast, indeed, for these ceremonies to be held in the shadow of the same hills which guarded many of the early experiments in the use of atomic energy. But that is New Mexico—a blending of the old and the new . . . a monument to the past and a citadel of strength for the future.

Frances Ortiz

President, New Mexico State Society

● NEW MEXICO . . . Land of enchantment . . . a rich blend of the old and the new . . . with a mingling of three cultures . . . Indian . . . Spanish . . . and "American". The long stretches of purple desert . . . and rugged and heavily-wooded Southern Rockies . . . present startling scenic contrasts.

● NEW MEXICO . . . Next to the youngest State in the Union . . . whose capital, Santa Fe, is the oldest seat of government in the Nation . . . founded in 1605 by the Spaniards. On its central plaza still stands an adobe building known as The Palace of the Governors . . . built in 1610 and used for 300 years as the official home of over 100 Spanish, Indian, Mexican and American Governors and Captains General. The Mission San Miguel at Santa Fe is one of the oldest churches in the United States.

● NEW MEXICO . . . Where the Pueblo, Navajo and Apache Indians still live in pueblos . . . much as they did when the Spanish explorer Coronado first saw them in 1540. The Navajos live on a 16 million acre reservation, the largest in the country. On Taos Reservation is the five-story pueblo built more than 400 years ago . . . sometimes called "America's oldest apartment house" . . . which is still used as a communal dwelling. The pueblos often contained as many as 1200 rooms.

● NEW MEXICO . . . One of the big stock raising States of the West. Agriculture is supported by irrigation . . . with corn, wheat, potatoes, sorghum, cotton, vegetables, sugar beets and fruits the leading farm products. New Mexico ranks high as a mining State . . . second in tin . . . fourth in copper, zinc and vanadium . . . with one of the largest potash mines in the world . . . and vast open pit copper mines at Santa Rita. Albuquerque turns out a variety of small manufactured products.

● NEW MEXICO . . . A treasure chest of scenic attractions. The Carlsbad Caverns are the world's largest explored canyons. Their weird rock formations have been 60 million years in the making. In the half-million acre Gila Primitive Area . . . which can be penetrated only on foot or horseback . . . the tourist will see colorful canyons . . . ancient Indian cliff dwellings . . . the Gila, river of mystery . . . and buttes and mountains, reflecting amazing colors in the sun. Other breath-taking natural phenomena include the Great White Sands, stretching over thousands of acres white as snow . . . and the volcanic cone of Capulin Mountain.

● NEW MEXICO . . . The only bilingual State in the Union . . . with both English and Spanish official languages. In some regions, English is rarely heard. Native Spanish villagers still follow the ancient customs of their forebears and celebrate their Feast Days with gay fiestas.

● NEW MEXICO . . . The birthplace of the first experiments with the atomic bomb and the seat of far-reaching research into peaceful use of atomic energy in the future.
